MORGAN SHOWN TO BE DICTATOR OF FIRM POLICY

(Associated Press.)

In the midst of their soundings of the extent of the Morgan enterprises, Senate investigators disclosed yesterday that J. P. Morgan is the dictator who has final decision in any dispute among the partners of his banking house over policies of the firm.

The financier, who has sat silently during the last several days of the banking committee's investigation of his business transactions, was also empowered by the partnership agreement drawn on March 31, 1916, after his father's death, to compel any of his partners to withdraw at any time and fix the amount of funds due him. Partners also were allowed to withdraw voluntarily.

Names of Signers Omitted.

The long-guarded partnership papers were placed into the record by Ferdinand Pecora, committee investigator, over the protest of John W. Davis, Morgan counsel, after the committee members so determined in closed session.

Original signers of the agreement, the capital contributed and the division of net profits and losses were omitted from the published document by the committee's decision.

Just before the partnership articles were made public, one of the partners—George Whitney—had agreed that on 1929 prices the banking house could have sold its United Corporation holdings at a profit of $122,808,000.

Couch Favored Customer.

Then a bit later, while Morgan smoked quietly nearby, Whitney said Morgan & Co. had participated to the extent of $48,000,000 in 1930 in $91,600,000 of unsecured loans arranged by his firm for utility companies in the United holding group.

These disclosures were brought out by Pecora during a day which added Harvey C. Couch, now a Reconstruction Corporation director, to the growing list of Morgan selected customers.

The day's testimony also brought out that the total income taxes for the Morgan partners from 1919 to 1929, inclusive, was $51,558,000.

Narcotics Charges Hold Federal Agent

Springfield, Mo., June 1 (A.P.).—W. O. McDonald, Federal narcotics agent, was arrested at Nevada, Mo., today and charges of illegal possession of narcotics and conspiracy to violate the United States narcotic laws were filed against him here.

The arrest was made by David Senters, Kansas City narcotics agent, who had been investigating McDonald's conduct for several months. McDonald was alleged to have had a quantity of narcotics, a bottle of alcohol and two pistols in his possession when his car was stopped in Nevada by Senters and a group of Missouri officers. McDonald declared his arrest was a frame-up, inspired by a grudge.

Stevens to Go on Trial On Embezzlement Count

Chicago, June 1 (A.P.).—Efforts to evade or defer his trial proving futile, Ernest J. Stevens was arraigned today and pleaded not guilty to the charge of embezzling $1,600,000 from the Illinois Life Insurance Co., $150,000,000 concern founded by the Stevens family.

Judge Philip L. Sullivan fixed July 10 for the opening of his trial.

(Associated Press.)

A mite of a woman raised a whale of a tempest in the serious-minded Senate Banking Committee yesterday—all because she was perched in the lap of J. P. Morgan.

Long an almost legendary figure in the realm of high finance, the broad-shouldered financier himself appeared mystified when Miss Lya Graf—a circus midget—was abruptly lifted by a man she said was a stranger to her to a seat on Mr. Morgan's knees, to

WASHINGTON POST SOLD FOR $825,000

Mrs. McLean Bids $600,000 in Effort to Save Paper for Her 2 Sons.

(Associated Press.)

The Washington Post, for 56 years one of the outstanding daily newspapers in the Capital, was sold yesterday at public auction for $825,000.

The successful bidder was George E. Hamilton, jr., an attorney, representing an undisclosed principal, whose name will not be made public for several days. Hamilton said, however, the new owner would continue to operate the paper.

A crowd of some of the most prominent Capital residents, including Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, estranged wife of Edward McLean, former Post publisher, gathered at the front entrance to The Post building for the auction. Mrs. McLean, wearing the famous Hope diamond, bid up to $600,000 through her attorney in an effort to keep the paper for her two sons.

A representative of William Randolph Hearst bid as high as $800,000, the bidding in the last stages being limited to offers by Hamilton and Geoffrey Conta, identified as representing the Hearst interests.

The first bid was one of $250,000 submitted by Bascom Timmons, a Washington newspaperman, who declined to say whom he was representing.

The Post was ordered sold after the International Paper Co., a creditor, had obtained the appointment of a receiver through proceedings in the District of Columbia Supreme Court. George B. Fraser, counsel for McLean before he was removed by court order, was present, but did not participate in the auction. McLean is now in Montreal, Canada.

Mrs. McLean, smartly attired in black, stood in a circle of friends, including Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, widow of the late Speaker, and Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, wife of the New York representative, while the sale awas going on.

After the sale, Mrs. McLean said:

"I have done everything I could to save The Post. I love this old paper. I bid to $600,000 to keep The Post for my boys, but I could go no higher.

New Jersey Fifth To Ratify Repeal

Trenton, N. J., June 1 (A.P.).—New Jersey today became the fifth State to ratify in convention the proposed constitutional amendment to repeal prohibition, but count action to test the legality of its ratification was threatened.

One of the dry delegates, whose lone "Noes" were recorded against 202 voting for repeal, challenged on the floor the convention's right to act on the second section of the proposed amendment, which would prohibit transportation of intoxicating liquors into any State in violation of its laws.

DIPLOMAS ARE GIVEN TO 432 MIDSHIPMEN

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 1.—Four hundred and thirty-two midshipmen today received their diplomas of graduation from the Naval Academy from the hand of their commander in chief, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, after the Chief Executive had delivered a brief but happy address in the course of which he referred to his deep love for the naval service, born of his experience while serving as Assistant Secretary of the Navy more than a score of years ago.

The President urged the graduates to make friends with their countrymen as a whole, rather than foster an exclusive relationship among themselves.

The commencement ceremonies in Dahlgren Hall were attended by a brilliant throng of naval officials and civilians from every State in the Union, which was perhaps numerically greater than has marked any other event of the kind at the naval school. The fact that it was generally known that the President would be on hand brought about an unusually heavy demand for admission tickets.

Washington boys were conspicuous among the graduates. There were 28 of them, about half of whom will

Attorney General Drops Assistant

One post of Assistant Attorney General will be abolished by a reorganization of the Department of Justice, but a new post of Assistant Solicitor General will be created, Attorney General Cummings said yesterday.

The seven Assistant Attorney Generals will be reduced to six, while the new Assistant Solicitor General will handle all opinions rendered for the President and Cabinet members. This will expedite the rendering of such opinions and leave the Solicitor General free to handle the Supreme Court cases. Mr. Cummings also said that his instructions to U. S. District attroneys throughout the country to reduce the expenses of their offices by 25 per cent were being generally followed.

"Golf Bag" Hunt Given Year on Weapon Charge

Chicago, June 1 (A.P.).—Sam "Golf Bag" Hunt, a gangster once arrested while packing a gun in a golf bag, was convicted in Municipal Court today on charges of carrying concealed weapons. He was given the maximum sentence of one year in the House of Correction and fined $200 and costs.

The jury deliberated one hour. Judge Joseph A. Graber overruled motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment.

HOWE REFUSES TO TAKE BLAME IN BUYING KITS

Secretary Says Budget Director's Aid Is Purchaser.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Appearing at his own suggestion, Louis McHenry Howe, White House secretary, told the Senate Military Affairs Committee yesterday that he had not personally directed the purchase of 200,000 toilet kits for the civilian conservation camps.

After bringing the matter hastily to the attention of President Roosevelt, Mr. Howe said, the negotiations were left in the hand of F. W. Lowery, an assistant to Director of the Budget Douglas and Robert Fechner, director of the emergency conservation organization.

Mr. Howe said he had no knowledge concerning the relative value of the kits, as compared with those regularly furnished in the Army through the Quartermaster Corps.

Order Payments Stopped.

Mr. Howe said he had no knowledge concerning the relative value of the kits, as compared with those regularly furnished in the Army through the Quartermaster Corps.

Mr. Howe's statement was in response to a charge made Wednesday by spokesmen of the quartermaster department of the Army that an excessive price of $1.40 each was being paid for the civilian kits, for equipment which the Army would match at 85 cents each. Present Army kits cost 40 cents.

Following Mr. Howe's statement, the committee approved unanimously a resolution offered by Senator Black (Democrat), of Alabama, instructing the Army and the conservation corps to stop all payments on the kit contract pending conclusion of the Senate's investigation of the award.

Immediately following this action, the committee reported unanimously in favor of Senate approval of the Carey resolution authorizing an exhaustive investigation into the negotiations leading up to the purchase.

This resolution the Senate approved without debate. The investigation will begin today, according to Chairman Sheppard of the Military Affairs Committee.

Lowery Called to Parley.

Mr. Howe presented a memorandum showing that he had called Lowery to the White House on May 15 to discuss the camp kit contract with a salesman of the Bevier Corporation, of New York. Lowery's memorandum dated yesterday concluded with the statement: "I then called Mr. Fechner and advised him of what had occurred, and that it was the desire of Mr. Howe that he, Fechner, should follow his own best judgment regarding these purchases."

Mr. Howe was questioned closely by members of the committee concerning his part in the negotiations. He explained that a Bevier representative employing apparently extraordinary

2 Scottsboro Boys Get Court Review

Decatur, Ala., June 1 (A.P.).—Cases of two of the nine Negro defendants of the Scottsboro case today were ordered reviewed by the juvenile courts of Morgan County.

The transfer was not opposed by the State.

The action came on application to circuit court for writs of habeas corpus for Roy Wright and Eugene Williams, whose attorneys contended they were only 13 years old when they were arrested with seven other Negroes on charges of criminal assault.

TWO OKLAHOMA JAIL BREAKERS TAKEN AT TRAIN

Manhunt for 11 Kansas Felons Widens After Bank Robbery.

Chelsea, Okla., June 1 (A.P.).—Oklahoma's two prison breakers were captured tonight as the manhunt for eleven Kansas Penitentiary fugitives centered about Chelsea, where six of their number were blamed for the $2,500 robbery of a bank.

Less than 30 hours after their escape from State's prison at McAlester, Jim Stribling and H. D. Bradbury, convicted killers, were apprehended by officers at Stuart.

Reported to have been trying to board a train, the convicts surrendered without resistance. The town is in the hilly country 20 miles west of McAlester.

Posse Takes Up Trail.

Exchanging shots with police, the six bank robbers, one of whom was identified from pictures as Wilbur Underhill, "Tri-State Terror" who led Tuesday's Kansas Prison break, fled from the Bank of Chelsea this afternoon. Despite the fusillade, no one seemingly was wounded.

A posse quickly took up the trail of the men, whose leader was identified by Ralph Vandergriff, of Alluwe, Okla., from pictures, as Underhill, who plotted the Memorial Day break of 11 convicts from the Lansing (Kans.) Prison.

Search for the convicts centered in the rugged Ozark hill country of four States.

Eleven convicts who kidnaped Warden Kirk Prather, of the Kansas prison, later releasing him at Welch, Okla., apparently had split into several groups in the hills where Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas converge.

Motor Convoy Is Safe.

Guthrie, Okla., June 1 (A.P.).—Fear that fugitive Kansas convicts had waylaid two motor cars of a convoy near Afton, Okla., was dissipated tonight by a report of 13-year-old Marshall Plankey that effecting of repairs after one of the machines struck a road grader had delayed the drivers.

Cash Up for Escaped Convicts, Dead or Alive

Topeka, June 1 (A.P.).—Characterizing the Memorial Day break of eleven prisoners from Kansas Penitentiary and the kidnaping of Warden Kirk Prather and two guards as "outrageous and a blot on the State," Gov. Alf M. Landon announced today rewards totaling $350 for the apprehension of each of the convicts, "dead or alive."

Round-Trip Ocean Hop Is Planned by Williams

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Roger Q. Williams, veteran transatlantic pilot, announced plans today for a round-trip European flight next month to make a scientific comparison of the northern and southern air routes.

He plans to take off from Floyd Bennett Field July 24 for Rome, by way of the southern route, fly from there to Athens, Greece, thence to Dublin, and from there to make a nonstop jump to Chicago over the northern lane.

Zeppo Marx's Party Held up and Robbed

Jury Locked Up in Trial Of Suspended Detective

Unable to Agree Upon Verdict on Charges Barrett Beat Prisoner During Inquiry Into Murder of Woman in Tearoom.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue late last night ordered the jury which has heard the case of Robert J. Barrett, suspended detective sergeant, locked up overnight when the jurors failed to report a verdict at 10:30 p. m.

Barrett is being tried on a charge of simple assault upon George M. Baber, who was at the time of the assault being investigated in connection with the murder of Mrs. Lizzie Jaynes, cashier of the Garden Tea Shoppe.

Barrett and others from police headquarters waited at Baber's apartment in the Marne Apartment House, at Thirteenth and Belmont streets northwest, and when Baber appeared he was, according to the prosecution, badly beaten.

Barrett was convicted last year of the charge, but his conviction was set aside by the District Court of Appeals because of a faulty charge to the jury by Justice James M. Proctor.

Justice O'Donoghue last night ordered the jury to a hotel. He suggested that the jurors resume their deliberations today. Barrett's case is the last of a series of alleged "third degree" indictments returned by the District grand jury as a result of an investigation launched by the Department of Justice, following an expose by The Washington Post.

U. S. Bars Debt Talk At Economic Parleys

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Roosevelt will initiate a synchronized policy of cooperation with the American delegation to the economic conference at London on this side of the Atlantic to achieve agreement on the main details of the agenda. Special tariff powers yet remain to be vested in the President. The details of this bill have undergone radical revision since the President glimpsed his first view of the 17-page document. The second step that remains to be taken here is the delicate adjustment of international exchange either on the old gold standard basis or on a new managed currency basis.

Several American experts have recently urged the adoption of the managed currency idea. This would entail an arbitrary decision by the President of the value of the dollar in terms most advantageous for the Aboard S. S. President Roosevelt, en route to London, June 1 (U.P.).—Definite rejection by the United States of British efforts to force discussion of the war debts question during the London world economic conference was intimated by Secretary of State Cordell Hull today.

Secretary Hull, asked what action the American delegation was prepared to take on war debts in London, declared:

"That is a matter to be discussed at Washington—not in London."

SENATORS APPROVE HELVERING, 56 TO 21

Walsh Is Only Democrat to Join Republicans Against Kansan's Naming.

(Associated Press.)

In the first serious interparty fight over a Roosevelt appointee, Senate Democrats yesterday crushed Republican opposition to confirm, by 56 to 21, Guy T. Helvering, of Kansas, as Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Only 1 of 60 Democrats in the Senate left the majority to vote against Helvering—Walsh, of Massachusetts—while 7 Republicans joined 49 Democrats in approving the nomination after several hours of sharp debate.

Senators Hastings (Republican), of Delaware, and Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, led the attack upon the Kansan, with Senators Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky; Capper (Republican), Kansas; McGill (Democrat), Kansas, and Clark (Democrat), Montana, doing most of the speaking in his behalf. Assailants criticized his actions as an income tax lawyer here and charged that while a member of the House he "sold" postmastership appointments.

Couzens asserted Helvering appeared "shifty" before the finance committee considering his nomination, adding:

"If you are going to confirm this man you are not going to end this controversy. You are not going to retain public confidence by railroading this nomination through."

Barkley, leading the defense, replied "There is not an excuse, there is not a reason, there is not an innuendo that has not fallen by its own weight."

The roll call follows:

Capper, Dale, Frazier, Goldsborough, Hatfield, Patterson and Schall—total, 7.

Democrats for:

BANK STOCK SALES AT $750,000 MARK

Half Million More Must Be Sold Before Hamilton Is Opened.

Three-quarters of a million dollars worth of stock has been subscribed to date to organize the proposed "Hamilton National Bank of Washington," Capt. Chester Wells, chairman of the general subscription committee for the prospective bank, announced yesterday, following a meeting of the committee.

This means that $500,000 more of stock must be sold to the depositors and stockholders of the seven local restricted banks committed to the plan to organize the new bank which will require a capital of $1,000,000 and a surplus of $250,000.

Franklin National Bank, striving to secure $2,100,000 worth of stockholders' and depositors' agreements to reopen independently under its present title, passed the $2,000,000 mark yesterday in its campaign. Officials of that institution believe that the remaining amount of agreements may be secured before the end of next week. Approximately $20,000 worth of agreements were received by this institution yesterday.

Banks that are selling stock in the "Hamilton National Bank of Washington" are the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., District National Bank, Potomac Savings Bank, Washington Savings Bank, Northeast Savings Bank, Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank and United States Savings Bank.

Opening of the proposed "Hamilton National Bank of Washington" will release 50 per cent of the deposits of the seven banks participating in the plan or more than $10,000,000. The prospective bank will have more than 100,000 depositors.

Women's Corpses Lashed Together

Miami Beach, Fla., June 1 (A.P.).—The bodies of two middle-aged white women, lashed together with a cord, were found in Dumfounding Bay, about 8 miles north of here, today by the crew of a dredge boat.

The skulls were crushed. Authorities said they could not determine if the women were murdered or had tied themselves together and jumped into the water to commit suicide by drowning. The bodies were in an advanced state of decomposition.

A piece of heavy-texture sack was tied to a rope looped around one woman's neck. This sack, investigator's said, might have contained some weight, since released when the sack disintegrated in the water.

900 Patients Menaced By Worcester Flames

Worcester, Mass., June 1 (A.P.).—Fire swept through the Lincoln wing of the Worcester State Hospital for the Insane this afternoon. Three alarms called all Worcester apparatus.

The wing houses 900 patients, most of them of an alcoholic type. All patients were marched out safely. The fire was soon under control. None of the other main buildings was damaged, although threatened.

Action Climaxes Drive for Strict Quota Adherence.

Roosevelt Transfers 767 Census Jobs to New Status.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

A House Civil Service Committee investigation of the Civil Service Commission and various departmental personnel policies was authorized by the House late yesterday over bitter Republican opposition. The vote was 177 to 54.

Adoption of the resolution climaxed a drive by Representative William W. Hastings (Democrat), Oklahoma, for strict observance of the old State quota law in making new Civil Service appointments in the Federal service.

The Oklahoman, who sponsored the resolution, charged appointments have not been made on a State quota basis, and demanded to know the reason why.

Hearings During Summer.

Following yesterday's House action, Representative Lamar Jeffers (Democrat), Alabama, chairman of the House Civil Service Committee, said he will call a meeting in a day or two to map the course of the inquiry.

He indicated the investigation may not get under way until Congress adjourns, with the possibility of subcommittee hearings during the summer. The Civil Service Committee chairman viewed the inquiry as likely to prove beneficial both from the standpoint of administration and personnel. Other developments yesterday in the rapidly shifting Federal job situation, which apparently reached its turning point early in the week with the Postoffice Department announcement of a "no dismissal" policy, were:

Representative William I. Sirovich (Democrat), New York, and Representative Jeffers conferred with President Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission on the Sirovich resolution to create a Federal "liaison officer" to handle employe troubles. Progress was made toward broadening the resolution to provide for ultimate jurisdiction by the commission itself.

President Transfers Jobs.

A movement to propose the modified Sirvoich resolution as a rider to the independent offices bill now pending in the Senate was disclosed last night. This step will be taken only if debate on the offices measure is continued long enough to permit revision of the Sirovich measure, which now seems unlikely.

President Roosevelt issued an Executive order transferring 767 Census Bureau jobs to Civil Service status. Examinations for the jobs, affecting primarily those collecting cotton production statistics, will be announced by the commission shortly. The White House move was interpreted as an administration tribute to the merit system.

Senate Democratic Leader Robinson announced he would press for passage of the independent offices bill today. The measure carries a Federal rotative furlough plan, a provision for optional retirement of 30-year employes, a clause giving equal weight to State apportionment and efficiency in making dismissals, and an amendment giving preference to "under-quota" States in future civil service appointments.

The Hastings resolution, called up in the House yesterday immediately following passage of the Wagner-Peyser bill creating a new United States Employment Service, precipitated a debate that took on the proportions of a pitched party fight.

Vigorous Defense Raised.

ROOSEVELT'S POLICY ON DEBTS DEFENDED

Robinson, of Arkansas, Tells Senate President Plans No Compromises.

An emphatic declaration that President Roosevelt "has not sought to compromise" the foreign debts, nor disregarded the congressional resolution against cancellation or revision was made in the Senate yesterday by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader.

In the midst of another assault upon the administration's foreign policy by Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, who said William C. Bullitt, attached to the American delegation to the economic conference, was the same man who was reputed to have told foreign government heads that Mr. Roosevelt favored sharp cuts in the debts, the Arkansas senator arose and asserted:

"I merely desire to say that I do not believe there is any justification for the statement or implication in the statement of the senator from Indiana, that the President favors the cancellation of the debts or favors a settlement of them on the basis of one-tenth or anything like that.

Defining Policy Denied.

"I should like to say that there is no intention on my part to try to define what will be the policy of the administration respecting debts should an impasse by reached relating to their collection.

"I have no authority to do that, and do not assume to say what recommedations, if any, the President will make. I do know as a matter of fact that the President has not sought to compromise the debts—that he has not disregarded the existing law on the subject."

The Indiana Robinson went into the debt question after discussing a speech in London by Ambassador Robert W. Bingham and asserting Mr. Bingham should be recalled for "seeking to overturn the traditional policy of the United States against foreign entanglements."

Tydings Defends Bingham.

Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, who proposed a lump sum settlement of all the foerign debts before he concluded a long speech, defended Mr. Bingham, saying when the remarks were read in full they would show he was "being candid, and if an ambassador does that he's the best ambassador we can have."

Mr. Robinson, of Arkansas, said the President "necessarily in the conduct of foreign relations realizes the difficulties that are to be met in collecting the debts, but there is every indication that he is abiding and carrying out, insofar as it can be done, the joint resolution of the Congress upon this subject."

The Indianan said he was "glad to have the senator's assurance" and then picked up where he left off the other day in attacking Ambassador Norman H. Davis at Geneva and Secretary Woodin. Both should retire from office, he asserted.

Davis Is Attacked.

"Mr. Davis is on one preferred list after another as a result of the Morgan 'inquiry,' he said. "He is not only indebted to Morgan, but is one of the pets of Morgan and on his preferred list.

"Therefore, if overseas, he must pay some attention to the house of Morgan. The quicker he's brought back here the better."

At the White House, the war debts issue was described as unchanged.

The declaration in London today by Neville Chamberlin, Great Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, that a pronouncement was expected from Washington before the June 15 payments are due brought no reaction.

ROOSEVELT TO HELP LONDON DELEGATES

American balance of trade. However, it would undoubtedly work to the disadvantage of foreign countries and to the very considerable profit of those "money changers in the temple" who were outlawed in the President's inaugural address.

The most recent monetary formula worked out shortly before the departure of the American delegation was directed at the rehabilitation of silver.

This tentative proposal would enable the central banks of all countries to reduce their actual gold reserve by allowing them to dilute it with as much as 20 per cent silver. At present the United States maintains a rigorous gold backing of more than 40 per cent. Switzerland, on the other hand, has a metallic standard in gold of more than 120 per cent, and at times this has gone as high as 160 per cent.

Metallic coverage of both metals would be optional on the central banks of all countries, but the mere fact that provision was made for any percentage of silver would be an inflationary gesture that would work to the increase in the value of the pale metal.

The necessity of monetary stabilization is of even greater importance at this time than the matter of tariff adjustments, for foreign governments have formally brought it to the notice of the United States that the terms of the tariff truce at London, of which the United States was the originator, are materially affected by a further decrease in the gold value of the American dollar. In substance, every time the American dollar drops a point on the international exchanges, the relative tariff positions of all importers into the United States changes. It puts the American exporter in a more strategic position to compete with the foreigner in world markets and at the same time it makes all foreign importers receive less American currency in terms of their own money.

The present tariff authority with which the President will shortly be endowed will in a general way permit the increase or decrease of tariff rates as much as 50 per cent. It also contains a provision giving Congress a 60-day veto power. There is nevertheless, some talk of limiting the terms of congressional veto to 30 days. That means that the tariff measure will become effective if Congress fails to act within the prescribed time.

The acquisition of these powers by the President is expected to work to the advantage of the American delegation in London. Intransigeant tariffs posted by any country could be considered legitimate ground by the President for putting into effect the provisions of this present tariff measure now under preparation.

continue in the service. Several were among those to receive honorable discharges, and others resigned of their own volition or because of physical disqualifications.

While this year's finals were made notable by the presence of the President, yet there was more or less of a depressed feeling as far as the graduates were concerned, because economic conditions prevented the class going out into the service as a body. In other words there were vacancies in officer personnel to provide commissions for only about 50 per cent. The net result was that 216 were commissioned ensigns in the regular line; 8 as ensigns in the supply corps, and 20 elected to accept commissions as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps, in line with an alternative policy adopted a number of years ago. A total of 130 received honorable discharges with receipt of their diplomas and degrees of bachelor of science, the latter in accord with an act of Congress of last May 25.

The resignations of 57 others became immediately effective, and one other member of the class, a Filipino, received his diploma and degree, but was not commissioned in the United States Navy.

Many of the graduates discharged or who resigned have been assured of positions with commercial aviation concerns or in other industrial lines, it was learned today, but there will be others who will go on a hunt for jobs.

But in spite of the extraordinary circumstances, the ceremonies were not shorn of the customary frills and thrills. The big building fairly rocked with cheers for the President, as well as for the graduates as they received their diplomas, the demonstrations being more vociferous for those who had attained prominence along academic or athletic lines.

The Presidential party, in a caravan of automobiles, arrived at the Naval reservation a few minutes before 11 a. m., the hour scheduled for the ceremonies, and the guns of the academy shore battery belched the Presidential salute of 21 guns. A company of Marines and Blue Jackets were paraded for the President and the academy band of 75 pieces played "The Star-Spangled Banner." Following the exercises, the President and his retinue were luncheon guests of Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent, and Mrs. Hart.

The graduates who will continue in the service will have 30 days' leave before reporting to ships to which they have been assigned.

Tomorrow half the members of the new first and third classes will embark on the battleship Wyoming for a cruise of six weeks to foreign waters. The other half of these classes will have seven weeks' leave before taking a similar cruise. The second classmen will remain at the academy during the summer for intensive instructions in aeronautics, engineering and other professional branches.

Camps for 50,000 More Are to Open

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt approved yesterday 287 new forest work projects on which more than 50,000 young men will be employed this summer and fall in 35 States.

Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, said 200 members of the civilian conservation corps would be employed at each of the camps. Approval of the new work projects brought the total of approved forest camps to 1,556.

The work to be done includes soil erosion prevention, forest improvement, fire protection, construction of trails, the building of lookout towers and all types of reforestation work.

The States in which the camps are to be located and the number of camps per State, included, Maryland, 6, and Virginia 24.

Probe of Judge Ritter Ordered by House Body

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday adopted a resolution authorizing the Judiciary Committee to investigate the official conduct of Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter of the Southern Florida District.

The committee Wednesday approved a resolution by Representative Wilcox (Democrat), Florida. Testimony had been taken from several witnesses, and the committee said Judge Ritter himself, in a telegram had requested that the investigation be made.

Attacking Nazi Students Fired Upon by Prince

Innsbruck, Austria, June 1 (U.P.).—A ban of Nazi students tonight attacked Prince and Princess Lowenstein while they were motoring here.

They tore the black, red and gold pennant from the prince's motor car, but fled when he opened fire with a revolver. Reports said there were no casualties. The prince is a well-known German-Catholic politician.

"Be Friends With People," President Tells Graduates

Annapolis, Md., June 1 (A.P.).—Here is the text of President Roosevelt's address today before the graduating class of the United States Naval Academy:

I am not going to talk to you of the many heroic examples that have been set by those who in past years have received their commissions on occasions such as this.

I am not going to give you a lecture on the uniqueness of your position as the first line of the Nation's defense against aggression.

I am not going to dilate on the duties and responsibilities that fall upon you in war and in peace.

These things you have learned from your own studies and from your instructors who have participated in them.

You should, and I assume you do, know more about them than I can know, and are fully appreciative of their importance and the grave consequences with which the manner of your performance of these duties is involved.

Knowledge of these things I must assume you have learned in the course of your term at the academy. Otherwise you would not be here awaiting the diplomas which certify your fitness to be naval officers of the United States.

Advantages Outlined.

You have an advantage over many other young men, not alone in having survived the tests requisite to your receiving your diplomas, but specially in that you have learned discipline, responsibility, industry and loyalty—the very elements upon which, in every walk of life, every worthwhile success is founded.

Others on the threshold of active life must demonstrate their reliability; yours, because you have graduated from the United States Naval Academy, is taken for granted.

There are, however, other lessons which can not be taught in the classrooms of the service colleges or of civilian colleges—lessons which can come only through voluntary study and voluntary practice on your part after you have graduated.

These are lessons that have to do with your relationship to your fellow man in your contacts with your associates in your chosen profession of Government service or of private endeavor.

A columnist complained the other day that I had overestimated the importance of understanding of, and sympathy with, the point of veiw and the general well-being of what might be called the average citizen, and he intimated that a man could be highly successful in any profession without studying that point of view.

Humanity Aids Success.

Nevertheless, when you make a close examination of any profession, you will find very few successful men, or for that matter women, who do not take into consideration the effect of their individual efforts on humanity as a whole.

Esprit de corps, pride of profession, is as delightful and imperative an element in the making of a good officer as it is in the making of a good professional or business man, but when it is carried to the point of assuming that only the holder of an Annapolis commission or diploma, or the possessor of a college degree, is a valid member of the aristocracy of life, it becomes a hindrance instead of a help to your service, to the Government and to your fellow citizens.

So I ask you to avoid an exclusive relationship to your own clan—to your clan of the Navy or to some other special Government service or to the clan of your profession in civil life.

Remember to cultivate the friendship of people, not alone in your class or profession, but the average run of folks, the same folks you would have known and liked and affiliated with had you not been chosen to enter and to graduate from a highly specialized institution of higher education.

This I ask of you, not only for your own sakes, but for your country's sake.

Service Is Paramount.

You who become today officers of the United States Navy are not set apart as a clique with different interests and different ideas from those of the rest of the country.

Those of you who are to enter a civil life are, in the same way, in no sense a clique.

You have, and should rightly have, pride in graduation from our splendid, historical Naval Academy. You inherit the tradition of honor and of efficiency. You inherit as well the tradition of service to the people of the United States.

You will, I am confident, think of those people not as an abstract, theoretical mass, but as 120,000,000 men and women and children in 48 States—on seacoast, on plain and among the mountains; in city, in village and on farm; rich people, people of moderate means, poor people; people employed and people out of jobs.

You represent them all. They have given you a glorious opportunity. Make good. Keep the faith. Good luck to you in the days to come!

Professors Protest Reich Intolerance

(Associated Press.)

The American Association of University Professors announced yesterday it had protested to the League of Nations' committee on intellectual cooperation against "intolerant treatment" of professors in German universities.

The announcement said the association disclaims any concern with "the political life or ideals of any nation," but asserts the principle that "science and scholarship have long since become international and that the conditions of intellectual life in every important country are a matter of legitimate concern to every other."

At the same time, the organization said it was urging the creation of emergency fellowships and part-time teaching positions in colleges and universities to meet "the grave unemployment conditions" facing thousands of teachers.

Camp for Jobless Women Is Planned

(Associated Press.)

Establishment at Bear Mountain, New York, of the first woman's camp for unemployed through use of Federal funds was announced at the White House yesterday by Secretary of Labor Perkins jointly with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In an area already "honeycombed with girls' camps," to use Mrs. Roosevelt's own phrase, this camp, created at her suggestion, is expected to test out the problem of whether camp life similar to the reforestation system for men is suitable for jobless, unattached women.

Miss Perkins opened the door to other States to establish similar camps "if local relief agencies make appropriate plans and applications to the Federal relief administrator."

Trust Fund Sought For Capt. Baldwin

It was all a surprise to Capt. Evelyn Briggs Baldwin, veteran explorer and Government agent, when it was revealed yesterday that friends throughout the country have launched a campaign to raise a $12,000 trust fund for his security.

Ousted from his $135-a-month clerkship in the Navy Department, a victim of economy measures, Capt. Baldwin, 71-year-old hero of explorations into the Arctic regions, lost an appeal to retain his position and found himself without means of support. His savings, what there are, remain tied up in closed banks.

Headed by B. W. J. Fox, of New York, a committee of prominent citizens, is attempting to raise a trust fund for his benefit. His case has been appealed by many, including Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

AIRSHIPS DEFENDED BY COL. LINDBERGH

Gen. Mitchell and Others Also Witnesses at Congressional Hearing.

(Associated Press.)

Alternate praise and criticism of lighter-than-air ships were put before a congressional committee yesterday by a succession of witnesses, led by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Testifying in the joint congressional inquiry into the disaster which befell the Navy's airship, Arkon, Col. Lindbergh urged continuation of the Government's experimental policy in this field as a matter vital to the future of general aviation.

His opinion was vigorously indorsed by Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, retired, but both Lindbergh and Mitchell had a word of criticism for the Navy.

Guggenheim's Opinion.

Col. Patterson, Rodgers and Gauvreau said they did not have a high regard for the utility of the rigid airship in military operations from the standpoints of maneuverability, vulnerability and general construction.

Guggenheim, whose interest in lighter-than-air craft in the past has made possible extensive experimentation in this field, told the committee it was his belief that "as time goes on, heavier-than-air craft will more and more supersede lighter-than-air."

"Oceanic travel, I feel, is now the way for greatest utilization of the airship," he said. "But even in this respect, I think airplanes will eventually overcome the long range cruising advantage of the airship and the principal point in its favor."

Mitchell "Sinks Navy."

Lindbergh, while urging continuation of development in lighter-than-air fields, said he likewise felt that heavier-than-air ships would always best serve commercial aviation needs.

"Both lighter-than-air and heavier-than-air are inherently incomplete and young," he continued, "and I do not think that this generation or the next two generations can say that either is impractical."

Gen. Mitchell, while reiterating his oft-expressed wish for a separate air service, evoked laughter from committee members and spectators by figuratively—and with gestures—sinking the Navy.

"You think," asked Senator King (Democrat), Utah, chairman, "we are wasting money on battleships?"

"I don't think so—I know it," retorted Mitchell.

Capital Man Inspires Dust Blast Protection

Milwaukee, June 1 (A.P.).—Codes designed to prevent durst explosions in industrial plants were adopted by the National Fire Protection Association in convention here today, following a report on dust hazards read by Dr. David J. Price, Washington, D. C., of the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Enlistment of Camps Extended to Saturday

Enlistments in the Civilian Conservation Corps from Montgomery County, Md., have been extended to Saturday, it was announced yesterday. Applications should be made to the office of the Montgomery County Social Service League, in the old courthouse, at Rockville, Md. Single young men, in good physical condition, between the ages of 18 and 25 who are unemployed are eligible.

Pilot and Passenger Killed in Plane Crash

Bartlesville, Okla., June 1 (A.P.).—E. M. Andrew, 40, commercial pilot, and C. B. Statham, 30, were killed today by the crash of an airplane Statham purchased only yesterday. The plane fell from an altitude of 200 feet about a mile north of the Phillips Airport here. Golfers on a nearby course said the motor had faltered.

dicated in public statements that war debts were to be discussed during the world economic conference in London, concurrently if not within the conference itself.

Secretary Hull, who heads the American delegation to the London conference, in his first press conference on board denied reports from Washington that he would return to the United States shortly after the parley got under way.

He asserted that he intended to remain in London until fundamental problems facing the economic conference were solved, rather than return soon.

It was learned that the United States, England and France will seek through the central banks a "de facto stabilization" of currencies simultaneously at the economic conference.

The United States delegation will lead the fight for an accord on lower tariffs to facilitate the flow of trade, it was indicated authoritatively.

London, June 1 (A.P.).—Although Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, declined again today to give the British House of Commons any inkling of the Government's policy upon the American war debt, it was learned authoritatively that cabinet ministers expect a debt pronouncement from President Roosevelt before the next payment is due, June 15.

Paris, June 1 (A.P.).—Another French default on the $40,732,000 war debt installment due the United States June 15 was accepted as inevitable in government quarters today as the Chamber of Deputies started the Pentecost holidays.

The cabinet decided May 8 against taking any initiative in the matter and, as the Chamber has adjourned until June 9 without a single deputy raising the question, advocates of payment have abandoned hope.

FORMER DRY CHIEF UNDER INDICTMENT

Federal Jury Accuses Mills and Eight Others of Illegal Diversion.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Chester P. Mills, former district prohibition administrator, was charged today with illegal diversion of industrial alcohol—a practice whose prevention he once said would be the best way of enforcing the eighteenth amendment.

Mills, who received in 1926 a $25,000 prize for that suggestion, was indicted by a Federal grand jury with eight others on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws by using industrial alcohol illegally for making an antifreeze solution.

"The charges are unqualifiedly denied and will be met fully at the time of the trial," said Robert B. Watts, attorney for Mills, who was administrator here for 15 months in 1926 and 1927.

Inquiry Lasted Year.

The indictments, which resulted from a year's investigation of the Tri-Borough Chemical Co. of Brooklyn and the Kant-Freeze Co. of New York, were given to Federal Judge Marcus Campbell in Brooklyn, who set no date for arraignment of the nine defendants.

Mills, now a resident of Fairfield, Conn., testified voluntarily last month at a grand jury inquiry. Forty witnesses were heard.

"The indictment of Maj. Chester P. Mills," said Watts in a statement, "on charges that he assisted in the unlawful diversion of industrial alcohol rests solely upon the major's connection in a sales capacity with a proposed automobile antifreeze solution.

"Specifically he never ordered or handled any industrial alcohol nor dealt in alcohol directly or indirectly. He never received any profit upon the antifreeze solution or from his associations therein, and is totally without knowledge as to any facts which might in any way render his conduct the slightest degree improper."

Accused by LaGuardia.

When the inquiry began a year ago, Watts said, Mills asked to be heard by the grand jury. He added that Mills, who, he said, "has never at any time directly or indirectly violated any law whatsoever," waived immunity when he testified.

Mills resigned in June, 1927, after denying charges of Representative Fiorello LaGuardia that he had violated the law by "personal purchases of liquor" and that he was unfit for office. It was in the next year that he won the $25,000 prize.

The others indicted were John P. Allen, of Great Neck, N. Y.; John Donnelly, treasurer of the Tri-Borough Chemical Co.; Harry Leffer and Samuel Gerber of Brooklyn; William C. Luth, of New York, and Abe Katz, Ben Meyer and Louis Losquadro, addresses unknown.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Kenneth Vought, who estimated the alcohol used by the concern would "run into several hundred thousand gallons," said Leffer is free on $15,000 bond pending appeal from a conviction on charges of violating pure food and drug laws.

MITCHELL ACCOUNTS HELD WRITTEN DOWN

Evidence Produced at Trial Shows $666,666 Item Entered as $1.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—To bolster its contention that $666,666.66 Charles E. Mitchell received from the National City Co.'s management fund in 1929 was taxable income, the Government produced evidence at the banker's trial today that the full advance from the fund was written down to $1 on the company's books.

The resolution by which this was done specified, however, that the officers who received the money were not released from their obligation to repay it. The Government contends this provision was a sham.

Mitchell admits that he received the money and that he did not report it on his tax return, but claims it was an advance on expected profits and to be paid back. United States Attorney George Z. Medalie brought out, however, that Mitchell has paid neither principal nor interest, and that he has deposited no collateral to secure the obligation.

This testimony was given by Frank J. McGuire, assistant secretary-treasurer of the National City Co., custodian of the minutes and records of the board of directors, and particularly of a "little black book," in which records were kept of transactions between the company and its officers. The book was introduced in evidence, but six of its loose leaves, recording recent salary advances to the officers, were missing.

Maguire still was on the stand when court adjourned until tomorrow.

Forestry Supplies Aid Fire Victims

Nevada City, Calif., June 1 (A.P.).—Food and blankets supplied by the Forest Service came to the rescue last night of many persons whose homes were destroyed by fire that swept the mining town of Alleghany, Sierra County.

In the town's single business street two stores, a hotel, several lodging houses and five dwellings were destroyed. But for the fact William Moulton, who was arriving home from Nevada City, sounded the alarm on reaching Alleghany, the destruction might have been even more extensive.

Coincidentally, the Oriental Mine at Alleghany was robbed of an undetermined sum by robbers who entered the workings. Whether there was a connection between the fire and the robbery had not been ascertained today.

CIVIL SERVICE PROBE ORDERED BY HOUSE

old State quota law had hardly been outlined by Representative E. E. Cox (Democrat), Georgia, before House Republican Leader Snell came to the vigorous defense of the Civil Service Commission. With thinly veiled sarcasm, Representative Snell inquired to know why the Democrats are so much interested in the civil service at the present time.

Following up this line of attack, Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), Michigan, charged the real purpose of the investigation is to determine how many jobs there are in the unclassified civic service that might be filled by patronage. If the true purpose was to determine how far the 3d quota law has been violated, that information could be obtained from the Civil Service Commission without an investigation, he insisted.

Representative Cox, selected by the Rules Committee to handle the Hastings resolution on the floor, charged the Civil Service Commission "is responsible for more dead heads, more inefficiency and more disloyalty in Government than any other public or private business."

He said the commission has a "riding coming to it."

He added:

"The commission has gone ahead with the feeling that Government jobs in Washington should be given to the people of the District. But I believe there is a feeling in Congress that equitable treatment should be given to the people of all the States."

INDUSTRIAL AID BILL WILL BE REWRITTEN

(Associated Press.)

With some changes likely in the House income tax increases, the Senate Finance Committee will undertake today a rewriting of the administration's industrial recovery-public works-tax bill.

After hearing final public arguments yesterday, which brought a sharp clash in the views of steel and labor interests, Chairman Harrison said the committee would get down to the job of revision quickly and that the House tax program to finance the $3,300,000,000 bond issue for public works probably would be among the sections modified.

Meanwhile, Secretary Ickes submitted to the House Ways and Means Committee and the Finance Committee an administration-favored substitute for the Capper-Marland oil bill which probably will be incorporated in the industrial measure.

Less than 100 words long, it provides that in addition to the powers granted the President to establish codes of fair competition for industry in general, he shall be authorized to prescribe regulations to supplement State oil conservation legislation and allocate the market demand between the oil States and between domestic and imported production.

Robert P. Lamont, president of the American Iron & Steel Institute and former Secretary of Commerce, told the committee yesterday the section permitting workers to join any labor union they choose and barring employers from requiring employes to join company unions was too indefinite and open to misinterpretation.

Lamont said the steel industry "stands positively for the open shop."

Taking sharp issue with Lamont, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said "there is no open shop in the steel industry" and "if any shop exists in the industry it's a closed shop—closed to the man who wants to belong to a union."

Whitaker Seeking Conviction Review

(Associated Press.)

Norman T. Whitaker, acting as his own counsel, yesterday filed in the Supreme Court a petition asking a review of his conviction in Florida on the charge of violating the Federal motor vehicle theft act.

Whitaker said he had gone to St. Petersburg with his wife to enable her to receive medical treatment and was convicted on an indictment returned in January, 1930, charging him and another with having received, concealed and stored an automobile belonging to the Burnshaw Motor Co. of Philadelphia.

He challenged the validity of the Federal act as applied to him, contending the stolen automobile completed its interstate movement and had come to rest in Florida. He declared that if possession of the automobile constituted an offense it must be tried under the laws of Florida. The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals took a contrary view, sustaining that he had violated the Federal act.

Personnel of Army Will Escape Slash

(Associated Press.)

A War Department economy program maintaining the Army at its present strength is nearing completion.

Secretary Dern told newspapermen yesterday that, due to the requirements of the Forest Conservation Corps, a cut in personnel at this time was out of the question. Meanwhile, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, said he had informed corps area headquarters that no reduction of the forces would be undertaken now.

The Secretary also said a broad program of economies to be effected within the department would be approved finally and announced within a few days.

It had been suggested that this include a reduction of personnel. President Roosevelt several weeks ago asked Congress for authority to furlough officers and the House concurred. The Senate, however, voted adversely.

ARMY PLANE CRASH KILLS 3, INJURES 4

Fog Causes Ship to Hit Side of Mountain En Route to San Francisco.

San Bernardino, Calif., June 1 (A. P.).—The treachery of fog and a desperate effort to escape from it which failed by a slim margin caused a crash of a transport plane of the United States Army Air Corps against a mountain side in the Cajon Pass today, killing three enlisted men.

Two commissioned officers were injured, one seriously and another, the pilot, slightly, and two other enlisted men were hurt critically. Surgeons said the injured, removed to a hospital here, apparently have a good chance for recovery.

The injured: Lieut. E. D. Kennedy, Kansas City, Mo., fractured leg and possible internal injuries; Private L. W. Decker, Bristol, Conn., broken right leg and possible internal injuries; Private Paul L. Blinka, Alice, Tex., broken left arm and possible internal injuries; Lieut. Charles M. McHenry, Los Angeles, pilot, bruises.

The tragedy occurred as Lieut. McHenry slipped the big transport through the heavy fog overlying the San Bernardino Mountains, en route from the home base at March Field, near here, to Crissey Field, San Francisco.

McHenry told persons who talked to him after the crash about 30 miles up in the mountains from here that he had been flying low and following the railroad tracks which wind through the pass and out to the Mojave Desert to the east.

Suddenly he saw what he thought was a hole in the fog. It appeared to be between two foothills. Opening the throttles of his motors, he headed for upper air. The big ship crawled past the first foothill, but not the second. The motors could not pull the ship to sufficient altitude quickly enough and the plane tore into the earth. It was wrecked.

Sheriff Hunts Reformer To Jail Him in Shooting

Chicago, June 1 (A.P.).—Daniel Gilday, reformer, was sought by a deputy sheriff today for defaulting in payment of a $12,000 judgment obtained by Herman Knol, 19 years old, whom he seriously wounded with a pistol shot November 29, 1931.

The jury included a malice count in the judgment, and under Illinois law Gilday may be lodged in the county jail for six months if he fails to pay the $12,000, provided Knol supplies $3.50 weekly for his jail board.

Oklahoman Makes First Bread From '33 Grain

Grandfield, Okla., June 1 (A.P.).—A loaf of bread claimed by J. M. Carroll, Grandfield wheat farmer, to be the second made from the first load of 1933 wheat milled in the United States, was presented Gov. William H. Murray today.

Atlanta Beer Retailers Acquitted of 'Violations'

Atlanta, June 1 (A.P.).—Two retailers of 3.2 beer, operating under Atlanta's home rule plan, were acquitted today of charges of violating Georgia's "bone dry" law, which prohibits sale of any beverage containing one-half of 1 per cent alcohol.

A five-man jury deliberated the charges about two hours. The men—J. H. Falks and C. M. Owens—were charged with selling beer in violation of State laws. They pleaded that 3.2 beer had been legalized by the City of Atlanta.

STATE CAPITOL SITE GUARDED BY MILITIA

Governor of North Dakota Acts to Halt Disorder in Laborer Strike.

Bismarck, N. Dak., June 1 (A.P.).—Fifty National Guardsmen patrolled the new State Capitol site tonight under martial law orders of Gov. William Langer to halt labor trouble.

Resumption of picketing in a common laborers' strike for higher wages has brought injuries to two men, disorders, a dozen arrests and some property damage, prompted the governor's proclamation.

The executive said he had received letters threatening death to him, Secretary of State Robert Byrne, State Treasurer Alfred Dale, State Auditor Berta Baker and an unnamed judge.

He said he believed they were written by a crank.

One letter said, "Remember the Columbus Capitol." He said this apparently referred to damage at the Ohio State Office Building while it was under construction last year.

Although the entire city of Bismarck was named as the martial law area, the governor explained that only the capitol site would be under military rule.

He said no effort would be made to have the military supersede civil courts and officers, and that civil agencies which requested troops to maintain order at the building site would continue to function elsewhere as heretofore.

Hope that the strike would be settled soon was expressed by the governor and representatives of labor and the general contractors the Lundoff-Bicknell Co., of Chicago. It has tied up work on the $2,000,000 structure since May 16.

A prolonged conference which preceded resumption of picketing by 150 workers failed to settle the controversy, in which the laborers ask an increase from 30 to 50 cents per hour and more regularity in hours. The governor took part.

PROBE DISCLOSES MORGAN AS CZAR OF FIRM POLICY

"Dot" King murder in 1923 when he was a New York assistant district attorney, was left with some of the committee members by John C. Hackett, who described himself as former special police commissioner of New York.

Through newspapermen, Pecora invited Hackett to "go to the bottom" of his service.

Power Issues Offered.

Yesterday's client list included persons to whom were sold for $75 by Drexel & Co. 90,061 units of United Corporation securities, which soon thereafter commanded a public market price of $99, and those to whom were sold by Morgan & Co. 56,500 units of Niagara Hudson Power at $25 when the market listing was approximately $36.

Sales of both were in 1929—before Couch, who was down for 500 Niagara Hudson, entered the Government service and before Owen J. Roberts, who was listed for 100 United, became a Supreme Court justice.

Along with Couch on the Niagara list were P. B. Mellon, J. Henry Roraback and O. P. Van Sweringen. Among those getting United were W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justices John W. Kephart and William O. Schaffer. Gov. Gifford Pinchot already had demanded their resignations for being on a previous list.

Unsecured Loans Listed.

Whitney gave the following list of unsecured loans outstanding December 3, 1930, to the United and companies in which the United holds shares, with the amount of the Morgan participation:

Columbia Gas & Electric $32,044,636—$17,044,000.

Niagara Hudson $25,000,000—$6,250,000.

United Gas Improvement $19,600,000—$9,600,000.

United Corporation $15,000,000 — $15,000,000.

When evidence was presented that P. G. Gossler, president of Columbia Gas & Electric, was sold United stock at $150,000 below the market price, Whitney at first denied there was any connection with acquisition of Columbia stock by United.

Pecora then quoted from minutes of the United that the stock was voted because "a close relationship would be advantageous to the United."

"Doesn't that indicate the sale was connected with the negotiations to purchase 50,000 shares in Columbia Gas & Electric?" Pecora asked.

"It does and I apologize," Whitney said.

Young's Stand Cited.

Whitney disclosed that formation of the United had been discussed with Owen D. Young, head of General Electric and a prominent Democrat. He expressed confidence that Young, at the time, felt the United's organization "wise and in the public interest."

Pecora read from Young's testimony last February which expressed the belief only one holding company should be imposed on operating utilities companies. The reason Young gave was that the structures grew so complicated that he felt the investor could have no comprehension of the real value of the top holding company stock.

"True, quite, true," Whitney said, "but I still feel that we are outside the scope of Mr. Young's criticism. As I said, virtually all the companies in which United holds shares are in reality operating companies."

"Some Regulation" Favored.

"Do you think it advisable to have some regulation of holding companies?" asked Senator Cousens (Republican), Michigan.

"Yes," Whitney answered, promptly.

"Then you agree with Mr. Young's views?"

Whitney nodded.

Japanese Consider Manchurian Drive

Tientsin, China, June 1 (A.P.).—Resting from their North China offensive as a result of the Sino-Japanese truce, Japanese military leaders today considered using their forces in a new drive against "bandits" in Manchuria.

The army chiefs also contemplated transferring part of their troops toward the northwest for service in a campaign for the control of the Kalgan area in Chahar Province, Inner Mongolia.

The greater part of the Japanese fighting men, estimated at 50,000, is now available for use elsewhere as a result of the armistice which was signed at Tangku yesterday.

Oklahoma Senate Asks Beer Issue Submission

Oklahoma City, June 1 (A.P.).—The Oklahoma Senate this afternoon passed a House concurrent resolution asking Gov. W. H. Murray to place the subject of beer before the special legislative session. The vote was 26 to 12.

The resolution has passed the House, 72 to 29, and now puts the matter before the Governor. The beer forces want to reduce the cost of the special referendum on beer, set for July 11. The referendum legislation provides the expenses of the election must be paid from funds obtained by public subscription.

Utah Class Paper Says Lute Is Slow Motion

Salt Lake City, June 1 (A.P.).—Here are some definitions from examination papers of a class at the University of Utah, submitted to Dr. Joseph F. Smith:

Sinister—Bright, glowing; one who has sinned. Lute—Slow motion. Chanticleer—A famous character of ancient times; one who oversees other individuals. Prodigious—One who is prodigal. Wisened—One who is wise. Complacency—Always complaining.

Counterfeit

Plot to Flood Crowds at Fair With $150,000 Reported Nipped.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Disclosure of a scheme to flood Chicago World's Fair crowds with $150,000 in counterfeit currency was called by authorities tonight with the taking of four prisoners.

The men, arrested on charges of possessing and selling bogus $1 and $5 notes, were alleged to have admitted they sent a quantity of the counterfeits to colleagues in Chicago.

SPOUSE SUSPECTED IN CAMPUS MURDER

Undersheriff Says Husband Will Be Formally Accused of Crime.

San Jose, June 1 (A.P.).—Asserting he had unearthed more evidence, Undersheriff Earle Hamilton announced today a murder charge would be filed against David A. Lamson, husband of Mrs. Allene Thorpe Lamson, 28-year-old Y. W. C. A. secretary, whose unclothed body with a gash in the head was found in the bathroom of the Lamson cottage on the Stanford University Campus Tuesday.

Hamilton would not discuss his alleged new evidence. The sheriff's office previously had discounted an accident theory after examining photographs taken of the bathroom before the body had been removed. Officers said the pictures indicated Mrs. Lamson had been struck when she was about 5 feet from the bath tub. The body was found in the tub.

Arthur M. Free, attorney for Lamson, insisted the woman was fatally injured in an accidental fall.

In Palo Alto, Dr. M. H. Saier, who performed the autopsy, announced he found the wound in Mrs. Lamson's head had been caused by "four apparent blows" that could have been inflicted with "any blunt instrument."

Lamson was in jail here. His little daughter was brought to his cell by his mother, Mrs. A. B. Lamson, and by his sister, Dr. Margaret Lamson.

Sheriff William Emig said Lamson gave no outward appearance of being heartbroken over the death of his wife.

Search was begun by officers for Miss Mary Roberts, who had served as nurse maid for the Lamsons. Officers sought to question her about the domestic relations of the couple.

Wallace to Get Drake U. Honor.

Des Moines, June 1 (A.P.).—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will receive one of three honorary doctor of laws degrees to be awarded by Drake University at its commencement exercises June 5. Wallace, who was to have delivered the commencement address, will not be able to attend and will receive his degree in absentia.

MIDGET ALIGHTS ON MORGAN; SENATE PROBERS HORRIFIED

In another room nearby, the senatorial inquisitors were gravely pondering the inquiry that was about to resume.

Somehow word reached them of what went on. Forthwith, photographers were notified they would be barred from future sessions if they used the pictures of the smiling midget being held by Morgan on his lap.

And at the afternoon session of the hearing all photographers were banned.

No senators were on hand when the banker, in good humor, had asked the blue-gowned Miss Graf where she lived and was told "in a tent, sir," while flashlights sputtered.

The smile on his face faded for a while, but not until after he had told his visitor he had a "grandson bigger than you are."

"But I'm older," she said naively, and subsequently gave her age variously as 20, 22 and 31.

Before long she was escorted away by the unnamed man in brown who brought her and put her in Morgan's lap, having told her—as she said—that he would introduce her "to the richest man in the world."

Whatever her obvious pleasure, it caused unpleasant reverberations among the committee, outstripping the several that have marked the course of the inquiry.

Opening the day's hearing, Chairman Fletcher hotly protested the incident and requested that the pictures be kept from publication.

Saying its was on behalf of the committee, one of its agents telephoned and telegraphed newspaper offices and the circus managers seeking to prevent reproduction of the photographs. Mr. Morgan, however, made no such move himself.

Jocose remarks were bantered by the spectators about the scene having a "circus touch," which Senator Carter Glass had insisted last week was the case save for "peanuts and pink lemonade."

When the midget showed up, Morgan was sitting in a chair, hands folded, big body in repose. Miss Graf and her companion headed straight for him.

They passed and greeted several of the Morgan firm on the way. The banker rose with a smile, bent down toward her, shook hands, and chatted a bit.

Then he sat down, thinking apparently the incident was over. It had just begun. Before Morgan knew what was happening, the man had hoisted Miss Graf to the financier's lap.

Reaction Benefits Morgan.

Morgan made the best of the situation. The crowd, heretofore seeming none too friendly at times, showed a definite reaction in his favor later by applauding Fletcher's indignant protest.

After twice being on the Morgan lap, the midget went tripping out of the committee room. Laughter swept the room.

"O, yes," she trebled, "I like Mr. Morgan."

The banker had talked to her as he would to a child, but he did not want her climbing about over him and made that plain in looks if not in words.

One of the most indignant was Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel. His face flushed a deep crimson when he heard about it.

The first impression was that the midget's escort was a circus press agent. This was disavowed, however, after receipt of the committee protest.

"We didn't have anything to do with that," said Frank Braden, a circus representative, raising his hands in deprecation. "It was a 'natural' and you can't beat a 'natural.'"

Lya's Version of Episode.

The midget's version, back in her tent, was that she just happened to be at the Capitol to seek a pass to see the White House, and just happened to meet the friendly "man in brown."

Lya's tiny arms made expressive gestures and she told her story with dramatic lifting of doll-sized eyebrows.

She was a toe dancer and a vaudeville star in London, she said, and she took to side show life so that she could see America, especially the Chicago world's fair, because her full-sized 23-year-old sister, who travels with her, might get married, and then she wouldn't want to travel.

She thinks the big financier was more flustered than she was when she perched upon his knee.

"He was kind of worried, I guess," said Lya, just before she mounted to her platform for the afternoon show, "not exactly nervous—a little upset—but friendly. He's a nice man—Oh yes."

Then she dashed quickly away to reappear in a glittering gown of spangles and wait for the curious crowds to pass her.

U. S. ONLY MORALLY BACKING ARMS PLAN

Davis Corrects Impression at Geneva as Long Recess Starts.

Geneva, June 1 (A.P.).—Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's spokesman, reassured the disarmament conference today just before it recessed for several weeks that the United States will whole-heartedly support international supervision of armaments, but will not promise in advance to join in penalties against an offending State.

The intervention of the American Ambassador at Large was designed to correct an apparent impression prevailing here that the American Government can be counted on to join in applying sanctions, to a country which is judged to be a violator of the disarmament convention which now is being negotiated.

While Washington, Mr. Davis said, is a strong advocate of moral pressure upon nations which violate treaties, it will make no promises in advance to punish anybody.

The conference took recess after making it clear to smaller powers that before the resumption of major activities about June 27 the steering committee will continue to sit in an effort to draw up a revised army limitation treaty.

Man Gets 5 Years For Threat Notes

Miami, Fla., June 1 (A.P.).—E. W. Sturgill, who threatened death or mutilation to two prominent Miamians unless they gave him $1,700 so he could join his wife and 10-month-old baby in Chicago, today was sentenced to five years in the State penitentiary.

Notes signed "The Buzzard" contained instructions for delivering the money demanded from A. MacDonald Watts, vice president of the Norris Plan Bank, and Theo. W. Moore, president of the Moore Furniture Co.

The notes were turned over to the police, who deposited a decoy package in the spot designed. Sturgill was arrested when he appeared and picked up the dummy package.

4 Girls Discuss World's Dictators

Four of the world's dictators—Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini and Mustapha Kemal—were discussed with interesting conclusions resulting last night by four young women—Misses Emlen Davies, Florence Hardy, Bambie McKenna and Alice Murphy, seniors at the Holton-Arms School.

"The greatest evil of dictatorship is loss of freedom," Miss Davies declared.

"America is closer to Russia than any of the other dictatorships," was the opinion of Miss Hardy.

Mussolini, Miss McKenna declared, "believes that the only vice is inertia, the only virtue, enthusiasm."

Kemal, according to Miss Murphy, is "creating a democratic government from a nondemocratic people, creating it through his faith in Turkey, in the people and in himself."

HOWE AT HEARING DENIES BUYING KITS

methods of high pressure salesmanship had sold Director Pechner the kits at $1.40 each.

He was emphatic in his statement, however, that he did not personally direct acceptance of this offer.

Senator Logan informed the committee during Mr. Howe's statement that the "War Department had entered a vigorous protest against what was being done." This protest was transmitted to the chief of staff and thence to an Assistant Secretary of War, who, in turn, carried it to the White House to Secretary Dern during a Cabinet meeting. Secretary Dern was represented as having taken the matter up with President Roosevelt after the Cabinet meeting.

Protest Made Day Late.

This protest, as it turned out, was thus presented the day after the contract with the Bevier Corporation had been concluded by Mr. Pechner.

The camp kits, including tooth brush, soap, shaving mirror, and similar articles, are being delivered to the Brooklyn quartermaster's base at the rate of 20,000 per week. Approximately 50,000 already have been accepted.

Under the committee action yesterday, the Government will not accept more of them until the Senate committee's investigation is completed.

Senator Logan (Democrat), of Kentucky, argued against the stop order, on the ground that it appeared to him an "unwarranted and unjustified" interference with the Executive authority of the President.

Senator Black, the sponsor of the resolution, insisted, however, that the arrangement with the Bevier Corporation appears "fraudulent and excessive."

In response to Senator Logan's criticism of the action, Senator Black emphasized that the stop order did not express a judgment of the committee on either the contract or the preliminary negotiations. It was offered merely as a protective step to insure the Government's interest in the matter pending completion of a thorough investigation.

Army Fixes 84-Cent Price.

The Army has insisted it is furnishing similar camp kits to enlisted men at a cost of 40 cents each. The additional equipment in the conservation kits, but not in the present Army issue, could be added at approximately 30 cents. The Army will undertake to match the Bevier kits at 84 cents each, according to the record thus far completed before the Military Affairs Committee.

Mr. Howe said he did not know whether, before the Bevier contract was closed, the War Department had proposed the use of the Regular Army kits in the Civilian Conservation Corps.

The Carey resolution approved yesterday represents the first Senate authorization of an investigation into any Executive action of the Roosevelt administration.

Empolyment Bill Passes.

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday passed the Senate-approved Wagner-Peyser bill to set up a Federal-State cooperative employment service and sent it to conference with the Senate to adjust differences in language.

South Dakota Dealers Lower Prices on Milk

Sioux Falls, S. Dak., June 1 (A.P.).—Milk prices were reduced by all distributors here today. Quarts dropped from 9 to 7 cents and the 12 cents rate on half pints of 30 per cent cream was reduced to 10 cents.

Competition from farmers who were selling direct to consumers was given as the reason for the reduction.

POST BRINGS $825,000 AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Some day, perhaps, the paper will pass back to us. Who knows?"

Mrs. McLean was reported recently to have offered her jewels, including the Hope diamond, for sale in an effort to raise money to keep the paper.

The Post was established on December 6, 1877, by Stilson Hutchins, and on October 9, 1905, was acquired by John R. McLean, who operated it until his death in 1916. His will named his son, Edward B. McLean, and the American Security and Trust Co., as cotrustees of the estate.

The son took over management of the paper, but was later removed at the request of the Trust Co., which asserted he was neglecting his duties.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

The Federal Diary's First Annual Golf Tournament late yesterday became history with award of the trophies and prizes. Front, left to right—J. Leland Acuff, Justice, general chairman, presenting cup to J. R. Emeigh, G. A. O.; Tom Belshe, War, and A. R. Strohm, I. C. C. Back row—H. H. Ritter, Public Roads; G. W. Ingling, Internal Revenue, and Albert E. Coldwell, Coast and Geodetic Survey.

SOME TIME your steps in research may take you to the library, Smithsonian Institution. If so, by all means ask for Mrs. Hope Simmons (*). You will find, after meeting her, that she is a very pleasing personage and, in addition, ready to do all she can to be helpful. Preceding her present assignment, Mrs. Simmons served in the Department of State and Agriculture, believing, it is surmised, that all knowledge is not concentrated in one library. Swarmi Fedd, without reservation, nominates her for D(istinguished) F(ederal) S(ervice) citation.

BOOK-LOANING, so often frowned upon as a social practice, is a real enjoyment to Miss Gertrude E Upton (*). She is stationed officially at the loan desk, main library, book section, Agriculture. Resourceful, helpful and accommodating—she possesses the trinity of characteristics which distinguish librarians and readily class them as among the real builders of knowledge for others. Her reserves of experience are freely available to all those who seek her counsel.

The letter to Congress by Mr. Ebert in the Federal Diary column surely is worthy of careful consideration. Who, may I ask, has a better right to the use of the retirement money than we, whose money it is?

The Government could invest the money with the Government employes at 6 per cent interest, which is greater than now received from the money kings and would also save paying to those who borrow the 4 per cent it now pays.

Of course it will be opposed by the "legal" loan sharks with their charges of 8 per cent, plus investigation, plus service, plus insurance charges all deducted from loan in advance.—W. J. Plemmons, 1313 T street southeast.

Glad You Liked It.

The members of the Department of Agriculture Golf Association, comprising an organization of more than 200, wish to thank you and The Washington Post for the good time shown members of our organization in The Washington Post golf tournament for Federal workers at Indian Spring on May 25.

Every member present enjoyed the day and came home with the hopes that it may be possible to meet the crowd for competition again next year.

The writer wishes to thank you for the opportunity of serving on the golf and handicap committees. I think the committees' work was done well and the tournament was a great success.—L. T. Hopkins, Agriculture.

Steel Officers Answer To Bonus Allegations

Trenton, N. J., June 1 (A.P.).—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation; Eugene G. Grace, its president, and other defendant officers filed answers today in chancery court to the action started April 11 to compel them to repay allegedly excessive amounts they received under the corporation's bonus system between 1917 and 1930.

Suit was started by the Standard Investment Co., holder of 150 shares of preferred stock, and in the complaint Grace was referred to as the "chief beneficiary of the wrongful administration of the system."

75 WOULD SELL BEER IN PRINCE GEORGES

Brew May Be Advertised Today, But Sale Will Await June 17.

The Prince Georges County Board of Beer License commissioners, in session yesterday, the first day of the new law in the county, were faced with the job of examining 75 applications for beer licenses.

Although the first advertisements of beer will appear in the county papers today, Prince Georges citizens will not be permitted to taste of the amber fluid legally until June 17.

Henry L. Morris was elected chairman of the board. Other members are Mary W. Browning, of Riverdale; William H. Brooks, of Marlboro, and James S. Heal, county clerk, designated by law to be clerk of the board.

The majority of the applications were for "on sale" licenses, costing $100 a year. "Off sale" licenses cost $50 a year. Applicants were required to pay a fee of $5 for advertising purposes. They must also obtain a Federal license costing $50 a year for wholesalers and $20 a year for retailers.

DR. DUDLEY FETED ON ANNIVERSARY

Popular Minister Has Spent 40 Years in Service of St. Stephen's Parish.

More than 200 friends of the Rev. O. F. Dudley, D. D., gathered at St. Stephen's Parish last night to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of his rectorship of the church.

The congratulatory speech was made by the Most Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, who praised the Rev. Dudley for his constructive work in the diocese and the "influence he has brought to Washington." The address of welcome was made by J. C. Williams, senior warden of the church.

The Rev. Dudley and Mrs. Dudley were escorted to the stage of the Sunday school room by the children's choir of the church, where they were presented with flowers from members of 14 organizations of the church.

This was followed by a recital of the church's history for the past 40 years by Arthur C. Houghton, treasurer of the parish.

Deaconess Yeo, who has been in charge of the House of Mercy, a charitable organization, for the past 32 years, was also honored during the ceremonies. She was the recipient of congratulations of the gathering and many bouquets of flowers.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WORD is flashed over the wire from Hollywood that the picture industry is prepared to take vigorous issue with the report of the Motion Picture Research Council over the ancient question of the cinema's effect upon children, outlined briefly in this space a few days ago in contrast to the point of view toward the theater of the good Bishop Frodsham, speaking in London, England.

The Council's report, based on a four-year survey, took the affirmative side of the proposition that motion pictures teach children to do wrong.

The industry's answer is an emphatic "No," and it is ready to back its position with the testimony of many jurists and educators—probably more than contributed to the compilation of the Council's report.

The Research Council's elaborate pronouncement, to be summarized in 10 volumes, of which the first is a summation in language understandable to the layman, is to the effect that the pictures' effect on children presents a "critical and complicated situation," and adds that young delinquents have repeatedly attributed their first wrong steps to the movies.

A spokesman for the Producers Association replied in these words: "It is true that countless youthful criminals have confessed, 'I saw it in a movie,' but investigation has shown nearly always their statements either were fabrications or attempted alibis."

The feeling of the industry and the Will H. Hays office in this matter was stated fully when, after Roger W. Babson, in 1929, declared the movies the "basic cause of crime waves today," Carl E. Millikan, secretary of the Hays organization, wrote Babson a 16,000-word letter, offering proof that motion pictures were not a force in molding character for evil.

The industry recalls also that Judge Ben B. Lindsay, formerly of Denver and now practicing law in Los Angeles, who has written a brochure upon the influence of the motion picture upon children, once said he believed "most of the sex stuff in pictures today goes over the head of the average child."

In this he disagreed with a portion of the Research Council's statement, i. e., that "the very youngest children carry away at least 32 per cent of what their parents would carry away from any given picture."

Hollywood is probably correct in its surmise that "boys played Indian and shot pistols even before motion pictures were invented." It may just have happened that there was an occasional crime back there, too!

In the same manner, but unquestionably in many more words, the industry in all likelihood will reply to the Research Council's findings against it.

"We won't become greatly aroused," said a prominent director in commenting upon the matter, "but we probably will overestimate our influence for virtue as effectually as our critics do our invitation to vice."

And that is no doubt precisely what will happen—if it hasn't already!

Rodney Collier, manager of the Rialto Theater, announces that the Ninth street house, made famous by Tom Moore as his "Temple of the Muses," will end its regular season upon the completion of the run of the current feature, "The Seventh Commandment," tonight.

During the hot summer months while the Rialto is closed, the house will undergo a thorough renovation and redecoration in preparation for a fall opening, of which the definite date will be made known later. Two films it was hoped would be ready for presentation, following "The Seventh Commandment," the first, "The Rebel," the vehicle in which Vilma Banky will return to the screen, are not yet available from the West Coast laboratories.

Incidentally, Universal is fortified with an impressive array of productions, or will be, for presentation when the hot weather begins to abate. Among them will be "The Left Bank" and "Counsellor at Law," two of Elmer Rice's Broadway successes. In addition there will be a new thriller, "The Invisible Man," a new vehicle for the weird talents of Boris Karloff, and a new musical, starring Kiepura, that incomparable vocal "find" heard not so long ago in "Be Mine Tonight."

Word filters back to the Capital that Charles Kurtzman, formerly personal representative in the field of Harry Arthur, one time general manager of all Fox Theaters in the East, and so indirectly responsible for the conduct of the Fox Theater in this city, has allied himself with the Warner Brothers organization and is now in charge of the Boyd Theater in Philadelphia.

I say word "filters" back. As a matter of warm fact, it came back on wings of love and was relayed to this desk over a smoking telephone wire. So there!

A play with music, "A Song in the Night," written by Edna Buckler, a Washingtonian by birth, who will also appear in the production, will be presented in the Belasco Theater tonight at 8:15, for the benefit of as many poor families as the proceeds will make it possible to reach "with the hope of awakening in their experience a sense of joy and renewed courage, that they, too, may realize that life still is sweet."

Miss Buckler is of the belief that true charity consists in helping another to help himself, and hopes through this benefit performance to establish a clearing house whereby those in need of help may be placed in their proper field of activity, according to their native ability and inclination.

The benefit performance of "A Song in the Night" originally was scheduled for last Friday night, May 26, but was postponed until tonight for good and sufficient reason.

Preparing to start a new picture in Hollywood this summer, Gloria Swanson is on her way to Switzerland to bring her children home for permanent residence in California. She is aboard the Ile de France, accompanied by Michael Farmer, her husband.

When Miss Swanson and Mr. Farmer left Europe about three months ago after a residence of more than a year, Gloria, jr. and Joseph were left in school in Switzerland until the completion of their terms.

And little Michele Bridgette, now slightly more than 1 year old, was left with them in the care of governesses.

The school term is now nearing its completion, and thus Michele Bridgette, who was born in Europe, will see California for the first time.

The star will return home immediately and expects to begin production as soon as the children are installed in the Beverly Hills home.

No announcements about the picture have yet been given out. But, as usual, it will be released by United Artists.

Just in case you have been wondering what Miss Swanson's flitting all over the face of the earth has all been about. Not that it especially matters.

A deep bow to Gene Dennis, the remarkable young psychic who last night completed two weeks of astounding revelation at RKO-Keith's and moved on to the Hippodrome Theater in Baltimore, for a stunning autographed photograph of herself, smiling right at you. Many thanks.

And, lady, do I hope the prophetic inscription comes true.

COBLENTZ CLOSES 2 DAYS' TESTIMONY

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 1.—After nearly two days on the witness stand, Emory L. Coblentz, president of the closed Central Trust Co. of Maryland, being tried in the circuit court here before Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Judge Arthur D. Willard, for receiving a deposit when he knew the bank to be insolvent, concluded his testimony late this afternoon.

Mr. Coblentz said he never questioned the solvency of the trust company as he knew the bank had a capital and surplus of $3,500,000. He testified that he had an account of $10,000 in the bank and that he had withdrawn $5,000 of it on the day the bank closed.

OFFICER DIES

Gen. Catlin's Rites Will Be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Maj. Gen. A. W. Catlin, 64, famous commander of United States Marines, who died at his country home at Mitchell, Va., Wednesday from a heart attack, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the S. H. Hines funeral parlors, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. Burial with full military honors will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Gen. Catlin commanded marine regiments in many famous engagements during the Spanish-American War, the occupation of Vera Cruz, Mexico, and the World War. He was wounded at Belleau Wood, and subsequently was awarded medals for gallantry by the French and United States governments.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Martha Ellen Catlin, and three daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Darling, Mrs. Wimma C. Voss and Miss Martha Catlin.

J. Fred Brady Is Again Spalding Council's Head

J. Fred Brady was reelected grand knight of Spalding Council, Knights of Columbus, at the annual election last night.

J. Herbert Walsh was named deputy grand knight; F. H. Huneke, treasurer; John Tabler, financial secretary; F. J. Malloy, recording secretary; Thomas F. Carlin, chancellor; F. J. Cresmer, advocate, and John J. O'Brien, warden.

Col. Royal K. Greene, Here During War, Dies

Word was received in Washington of the death Wednesday of Lieut. Col. Royal K. Greene, Coast Artillery, at Atlanta, Ga., where he was on detached service in charge of the R. O. T. C. in schools of that area. Col. Greene was well known in Washington. He graduated from West Point in 1907, and was stationed here during the World War.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Blenne Martin Greene, a daughter, Sarah, and a son, Gordon. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

In addition he had 7,500 shares of stock of the company.

Holdings of Debentures.

Mr. Coblentz testified that the bank held $2,400,000 worth of junior debentures on the Wardman properties in Washington. Under a plan of reorganization provision was made for senior debentures and notes but no provision was made for the junior debentures. He testified that the Central Trust Co. had approximately $6,000,000 invested in Washington real estate which at one time produced handsome returns. He said the Wardman properties in Washington in which the main part of $6,000,000 was invested by the Central Trust Co., were at the time of the investment said to be worth $24,000,000.

Mr. Coblentz said he never used the bank for his personal gain, but on the contrary put everything he had back into the bank. He said after his indictment in Washington by a Federal grand jury withdrawals of nearly $1,000,000 were made and the cash reserve of $325,000 had dwindled to $272,000.

S. Edward Shaw, an officer of the bank, testified that he was on a syndicate note held by the bank for $158,000, but had not paid anything on the note since the bank closed.

Reorganizing Plan Outlined.

Carl D. Loos and E. Barrett Prettyman, of a Washington law firm, testified that they were retained by Mr. Coblentz in August, 1931, to protect the holders of $2,400,000 worth of junior debentures on Wardman properties. Both said a plan of reorganization contemplated leaving out the junior debentures and protecting the senior debentures and notes. They said they informed Mr. Coblentz that they thought the junior debentures would also be recognized in the reorganization.

Several officers and directors of the Central Trust Co. testified that they knew very little about the operation of the subsidiary companies, but knew that no loan for $5,000 or more was made by the trust company unless it was first approved by the directors. Two of the directors testified that they made substantial deposits in the bank an hour before the meeting at which Mr. Coblentz recommended that the bank be closed.

Edward Cooper's Funeral Is Today

Funeral services for Edward Cooper, 49, for many years a hardware dealer at Fourteenth and P street northwest, who died suddenly Wednesday from a heart attack, will be held today at 10 a. m. at his home, 1362 Taylor street northwest. Interment will be in Adas Israel Cemetery.

Mr. Cooper was founder and a prominent member of the Central Business Men's Association and was one of the organizers and a director of the Consolidated Hardware Stores of the District. Besides being active in Jewish charitable organizations here, he was a member of Benjamin B. French Masonic Lodge, Argo Lodge, B'nai B'rith, the Jewish Community Center and the board of Adas Israel Congregation.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jennie Cooper; three daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Kluft and Misses Veeda and Sylvia Cooper; his mother, Mrs. Daniel Cooper, all of Washington; a brother, Jacob Cooper, of College Park, Md., and four sisters, Mrs. Ben Kandel and Mrs. J. Katz, of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. John Wolfe and Mrs. Julius H. Wolpe, of Washington.

COL. BANISTER BURIED.

Full Military Honors Are Accorded at Arlington Services.

Burial services for Col. John M. Banister, U. S. A., retired, were held yesterday afternoon at Arlington National Cemetery. The funeral procession formed at the Fort Myer Gate. The service was with full military honors, the Episcopal service being read.

Col. Banister died January 31, 1929, in Omaha, Nebr., and was originally buried there. His son, Dr. Edward Banister, of Omaha, and a brother, Col. William B. Banister, U. S. A., retired, of Petersburg, Va., came to Washington for the burial.

ISHII'S ALIBI.

Viscount Ishii has brought forth a novel suggestion which is intended to relieve Japan of responsibility for the hostilities in China. Speaking before a distinguished group at the Lawyers' Club in New York, he made a plea for punishment of nations guilty of breaking treaties as well as those guilty of military aggression. Unless provisions against treaty-breaking are written into the Kellogg pact and the League of Nations covenant, he says, those instruments will prove to be ineffective.

It is somewhat strange to hear the representative of Japan advocating international discipline for treaty-breakers. Japan's violation of the nine-power treaty, the Kellogg pact and the League covenant has brought the condemnation of the world upon that country. But Japan considers her actions justified by alleged violations of her treaty rights in China for years before the present hostilities began. Japan did not carry her case to the League of Nations, says Viscount Ishii, because there is no provision in the covenant aimed at treaty-breakers.

This view of the situation leads the Japanese statesman to propose that the League should "forbid treaty-breaking, just as the League covenant, in its present form, forbids military aggression," and that the Kellogg pact should "outlaw treaty-breaking and economic aggression as an instrument of national policy just as it outlaws the employment of force." It is apparent that these suggestions are made as a part of Japan's defense of her actions in China and not as practical objectives to be sponsored at Geneva. No international body could undertake to enforce all treaty relations between governments or to prevent "economic aggression."

Treaties are agreements between two or more powers on matters in which they are mutually interested. If treaties are broken the injured party can demand redress and the dispute can be submitted to arbitration. To suggest that such agreements should be enforced by some outside international power is entirely outside the realm of practicality. Furthermore, who can say what constitutes "economic aggression?" Any measure of national self-protection might be so construed by some statesmen for their own purposes. Nations can not afford to waste their efforts trifling with matters of this kind. So-called economic aggression can be curbed or thwarted without resort to war. Breaches of treaties can be adjusted peacefully without an international police force. The thing which threatens the peace of the world is military aggression.

While the lion is roaring nearby Japan invites attention to the mouse. Mr. Ishii's New York speech can not be regarded as anything more than an attempt to confuse the real issue which is presented to the world by Japan's aggression in China.

CHARTING THE TEMBLOR.

Recent disasters have given more than usual interest to the five-year plan which has been started by the 250 seismograph stations in all parts of the world in an effort to gain more complete knowledge of the earth's tremors. The basis for the survey is a plan drawn up by a group of Harvard scientists who will endeavor to gauge the velocity of seismic waves through various strata of the crust and core of the earth. This they will do through countless checks of reports between widely separated cooperating stations.

The Harvard station, which was recently completed, is said by geologists to be the best equipped laboratory that has ever been constructed. In the old Harvard station observers were disturbed by external vibrations which greatly handicapped their operations. The difficulty has now been overcome by building the new station fourteen feet under ground, the last eight feet being cut out of solid rock. The twenty-five foot square excavation has walls of concrete which support the slanted steel-beam ceiling, which in turn carries 400 tons of concrete and as much more ballast of rock and earth above.

Each one of the Harvard recording instruments rests on a cement pier built on the native rock floor, which extends down into the earth for hundreds of feet. The modern seismograph, which bears little resemblance to its predecessor, makes its record photographically. A tiny mirror, supported on the sensitive moving arm of the seismometer, throws a beam of light on the sensitized bromide recording paper. By a process of amplification the photo of the vibrations of the earth is magnified several thousand times. These careful records, together with the help of radio, which checks time signals from the Naval Observatory at Arlington, make possible the growing fund of information on the causes and trends of the earth's disturbances.

PUBLICITY, NOT INSURANCE.

The Federal Trade Commission has been assigned a very grave responsibility in the administration of the Federal securities act. In spite of the fact that the commission's powers are specifically limited, it will be expected in many quarters to ban all questionable securities from the market and to save all lambs from the wolves. Most of its powers extend no further than the publication of facts and figures on which the public may base its own judgment as to the value of securities offered for sale. But it will be very difficult to establish that fact. Thousands of people who thrive on impressions and not specific facts already believe that the commission's mandate is to keep "unsound" securities off the market.

Both President Roosevelt and the commission have sought to correct this impression. The President emphasized the fact that no government can protect its citizens from errors of judgment. Officials of the commission give notice that it has no authority to pass upon the soundness of any security. "Its sole function," says an official statement, "is to see that full and accurate information as to the security is made available to purchasers and the public." Congress emphatically rejected the idea that the commission should be set up as a judge of financial soundness for stocks and bonds.

The real nature of the commission's responsibility can not be too often repeated. In this respect the commission might profit by the experience of the State Department which, in recent years, has sought to prevent the flotation in this country of foreign loans that might be incompatible with the international policies of the Government. It was stated and restated that the Government did not pass upon the soundness of any loans, and promoters were forbidden to mention the fact that consent of the State Department to float loans had been asked. Yet politicians in the heat of the last campaign laid the default of foreign bonds at the door of the State Department.

The Federal Trade Commission will be fortunate indeed if it escapes a similar experience. Political strategy often plays upon public ignorance of the law with devastating effect. Much can be done to avert this misunderstanding and this exploitation of ignorance, however, by widespread explanation of the act designed to protect investors.

FRANCE PAYS GOLD.

France disdains to take refuge behind America's own repudiation of gold contracts, or the British decisions which point the way to evasion through otiosity. Paris pays its dollar bond interest in dollars plus a premium equal to the depreciation in gold exchange. This action can be considered either a grandstand play, a spectacular gesture to emphasize France's unalterable support of gold, or it may be taken as a rebuke to the determination of the United States to abjure the gold clause in all contracts.

French dollar bonds to the extent of $200,000,000, equally divided between the 7½ and 7 per cent issues, had coupons maturing on June 1. Payment at the gold exchange rate instead of dollars raised the amount paid on a $37.50 coupon to about $44.50 and on the $35 coupons to about $41.50. This action follows the course of the three French municipalities—Marseilles, Lyons and Bordeaux—when the coupons of their bonds became due a month ago. The American position had not been so firmly pronounced at that time and it was generally felt in financial circles that, with the decision of the United States to pay its bonds in legal tender and to order similar rules for private obligations, France might adopt the same procedure.

The French attitude with regard to the December interest payment on the war debt appears in rather strong contrast to this current action. Payment of this premium, in contradistinction to the American position, undoubtedly is expected to redound to the financial prestige of France. Of course, it is not costing France any more in francs than she had expected to pay for gold dollars. She is simply not taking advantage of the saving of $6 or $7 per coupon which might be made. It is a luxury France feels she can afford because it tends to accentuate the stigma of repudiation upon Uncle Sam. Holders of dollar bonds in France who are now obliged to suffer a loss of about 15 per cent when they exchange American currency into their own money will doubtless relish the sight of La Belle France crossing the Atlantic to give Uncle Sam this little slap in his own house.

TAXES WITHOUT BENEFITS.

The idea of taxing the residents of Washington for the benefit of the whole Nation is carried a long step forward in the public works bill now before the Senate Finance Committee. In recent years taxpayers of the District have had to accustom themselves to paying for elaborate parks, &c., because they are residents of the National Capital. Congress has persistently refused to furnish its just share of the Federal City's budget. Now it is proposed that residents of the District should contribute to a special tax for the benefit of every State and city, except Washington.

It is estimated that residents of the Capital would pay $11,499,000 in additional gasoline taxes under the revenue provisions of the public works measure during the 15-year amortization period. But not one cent of the $400,000,000 appropriation for roads would be allotted to the District. Such discrimination against the motorists and the unemployed of Washington is incredible. Surely this blunder will be corrected before the bill goes to the Senate from the finance committee!

Many of the States are as dissatisfied with this feature of the bill as is the District. The highway fund would be distributed on the basis of population, mileage of post roads and State area. The sparsely settled States of the West would thus obtain far more than they contribute, while such States as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois would pay approximately $160,000,000 more than they would receive for highway development. These States would thus be hampered in their own programs of road building. They would not be able to raise gasoline taxes to finance their own projects because Uncle Sam would have pre-empted this source of revenue. About 19 cents of every dollar spent for gasoline already goes into taxes. An additional Federal tax would impose an extremely heavy burden upon motorists in some States and would deprive other States, where the gasoline tax is still moderate, of a source of revenue that may be much needed.

Virtually every development in the discussion of taxes to support the public works program suggests the wisdom of applying a sales tax for this period of emergency.

MID-OCEAN AIRPORT.

Scores of elaborate designs for ocean airports have been made, but the first one actually established is far less fanciful in appearance and more practical than most of these schemes. The Luft Hansa German air transport monopoly has located a base for its planes in the middle of the south Atlantic, to be used in the regular flying service between Berlin and Buenos Aires, now being established. The sea airport was made from the 5,000-ton freight steamer Westphalia, which the Luft Hansa converted into an airplane "mother ship," and placed half way on the 1,300-mile stretch from the west coast of Africa to Natal, Brazil.

The Westphalia has been equipped with a catapult launching device which is the largest ever constructed. Utilizing compressed air, it launches a flying ship in 1.52 seconds, hurling it into the air at a speed of more than 90 miles an hour. Hydroplanes land near the Westphalia in the ordinary manner and are then hoisted on board by a specially constructed crane. The plane will then be refueled and gone over before starting on. Equipped with a crew of 40, the airport will also accommodate extra flying personnel.

The new service plans bi-weekly trips, which will take four days from Germany to Argentina. The departures will alternate with the bi-weekly schedule of the Graf Zeppelin, thereby establishing weekly air-mail service between the two continents. The Zeppelin carries passengers as well, but in the beginning, at least, the plane service will be restricted to mail and freight.

After Ambassador Bingham's declaration that the United States has abandoned its traditions it is well for Ambassador Davis to remind the powers that the United States stops at "moral pressure" on aggressors.

The order to retain Army officers in the service indefinitely and the order cancelling the laying up of warships ought to be cabled to London and Geneva.

MURDERERS ESCAPE

From the Boston Transcript.

What is the matter with the American prison system? The question is raised again by the escape of eleven desperadoes from the Kansas penitentiary. The seizure of the warden and two guards as hostages, and the abduction of two young girls and an invalid woman add to the force of the question.

There had been much previous trouble at the Kansas prison. The leader in yesterday's successful attempt at escape was concerned several years ago in an attempt which failed. The kidnaping of the warden had a precedent in 1931 when convicts escaping from the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, only a few miles distant from the Kansas prison, wounded and carried off the warden. The past decade has witnessed a series of riots within prison walls with the accompanying burning of buildings and loss of life. Where next trouble will be encountered can not be foretold. That there will be such trouble may be taken for granted if existing conditions in the treatment of criminals continue, unless better means of prevention are adopted than those now employed.

In that connection a second question arises: Why are gangsters and other desperadoes not put in prison apart from those filled with men guilty of a great variety of lesser crimes? This country unfortunately contains a criminal element whose members are wild beasts in human form. Instead of segregating them where they can not become a source of danger through the opportunity offered by privileges accorded other prisoners, they ordinarily mingle with the general prison population. In the present case, a ball game gave such men a chance to make their escape. They had prepared for it, if accounts are correct, by securing arms from outside. It is obviously easier to smuggle weapons into a large prison than it would be into a smaller institution set apart for the "killers" and their kind. Segregation of the dangerous among convicts is not unknown in this country. It should be much more common.

Another consideration presents itself. Kansas is one of the minority of the States which make life imprisonment the extreme penalty for murder. It keeps alive the type of man who will not hesitate to kill again and again. Prison keepers and the general public are exposed to a great peril because of this condition as the outbreak in the Kansas penitentiary goes to show. It does not strengthen the movement for the abolition of capital punishment in other States. It may, however, serve to direct that movement, in part at least, in the direction of such modification of the law as would give judge and jury a degree of discretion in fixing the penalty when there is a conviction of first-degree murder.

FRIENDSHIP.

To see the need nor pause to seek
As one all-wise in right and wrong,
Why he has proved himself so weak
Who had his moment to be strong;
To give, nor ever think to learn
What shall be given in return,

To hear a cry for aid and run
All haste from whence that summons came
To do what plainly must be done
And bother not to fix the blame;
To serve the need and never pause
To know whose fault and what the cause.

To play the friend whene'er I can
With all the power that I command,
Knowing the blow that fells a man
Is quite enough to understand;
To see him down and lift him up,
Hungry, and fill his plate and cup.

Sour It With Grim-Faced Disapproval, And Home Is a Mere Reformatory.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IF you question the power of public opinion, observe how many men it has driven to suicide.

When a bankrupt takes his own life, it usually will be found that his neighbors nagged him to death. They were innocent of evil intent, but none the less guilty.

They had certain standards and rules and ideals by which to measure him. And only by conforming to these could he hope to be respected.

He was required to make money, to possess the newest gadgets, to maintain a certain style of living, to display in an orthodox manner the accepted proofs of his ability to get.

And when his money was gone, he knew that he was hopelessly disgraced. Like sad parents whose daughter has gone astray, he could not lift his head in public. He had lost everything that made him respected. He had broken the rules. He had displeased his neighbors beyond the possibility of forgiveness. Nothing remained but death.

In a land that boasts of its freedom, the ordinary individual never is free to follow his natural and blameless inclinations. From the day of his birth he is dominated by some person or group that says: "Make yourself like this or suffer my ruinous displeasure."

A cynical wise-crack now growing stale with repetition declares with the wisdom of Solomon that a man hopes his wife never will change while a woman hopes her husband will.

She doesn't merely hope for change, however. She makes it her business to effect a change. And the husband makes silent resolve to effect such changes in her as his taste may require. Theirs is a partnership of mutual reformation.

The household reformer dominates by strength of character, by means of nagging or by silent and tight-lipped condemnation; but whatever the method may be, the victim lives in fear and trembling, unable to call his soul his own, his nerves ready to snap under the strain of watching his step and doing his utmost to please.

Even our friends set up an ideal for us to imitate and are disappointed and offended if we are merely ourselves.

Everybody nags at somebody. And thus everybody has opportunity to add to the sum of human happiness.

Forget the big problems. Mr. Roosevelt will attend to them. For your part, firmly resolve to attend to your own business and leave to others the conduct of their own lives, and all who know you will call you blessed.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Bank Insurance Plan.
Boston Transcript.

It is much to be hoped that the deposit-insurance features of the Glass bill will either be struck out by the conference committee of the House and Senate, or else that President Roosevelt will insist upon an amendment excluding this provision before he consents to sign the bill. Senator Glass himself must have been shocked, one would suppose, by the recent change which set up an immediate guaranty of all deposits for the year 1933-34. And in view of the senator's life-long battle for sound national banking, we find it difficult to believe that he is really convinced of the merit even of the "insurance" plan which he drew himself. It seems more probable that he finally felt forced to include the plan as a means of securing the necessary votes for the more conservative features of his bill. If that be true, surely it should be possible now to purge the measure of this rash and dangerous fault.

Vicious Tax Proposal.
Syracuse Post-Standard.

The Government plans to soak the consumer "going and coming," so to speak, in his purchases of oil and gasoline.

Despite the fact that gasoline levies today are far beyond reasonable limits, Congress has decided to increase the Federal tax on the fuel from 1 to 1½ cents a gallon.

Furthermore, it is going ahead energetically with plans to stabilize oil production, which likewise will increase the price of this indispensable fuel.

The proposed increase in the Federal gasoline tax is as bad and unintelligent and deflationary as the proposed increase in income taxes in the brackets from which most of the country's purchasing power comes.

Suggestive.
Judge.

We notice that many of the stocks listed in the financial sections are followed by "pf," and we sometimes wonder if this doesn't mean "pffft."

Running Well.
Boston Herald.

The Chinese, says a British statesman-philosopher, are sure to win in the long run. Well, they're getting some great practice at the thing, anyway.

Vivid Imagination.
Detroit Free Press.

The first shiploads of 3.2 beer have started for Alaska. We can imagine the riotous spress that will be staged when it arrives, by hardbitten trappers and prospectors in town for an annual blowout.

Japan Asks for More.
Kansas City Star.

The Japanese delegation has added to the difficulties of the harassed Geneva disarmament conference by urging that the British plan, which now seems to offer the best, if not the only, hope of a general agreement, shall be modified by striking out the clause which is designed to preserve the benefits of the Washington and London naval treaties. The delegation further has proposed that a new naval agreement be drafted, to replace those treaties and to embody the demand for a higher ratio for the Japanese navy in relation to the American and British navies, which was placed before the conference on behalf of Japan in December.

In effect, Japan is asking that the 10-10-6 ratio in total tonnage which was assigned to the United States, Great Britain and herself, respectively, under the previous treaties, shall be changed to one that would be virtually 10-10-9; in other words, to have herself accorded something very like parity with the United States and Great Britain.

THE ONCE OVER
By H. I. PHILLIPS

IMPRESSION OF THE WASHINGTON PROBE.

Q.—Now then, what were the profits of your firm in 1929?

A.—About $15,000,000.

Q.—Was that under a nonaggression pact?

A.—Moley.

Q.—What's that?

A.—I mean wholly.

• • • •

Q.—Your company underwrote the Allegheny Shoals and Tennessee Valley Reclamation Corporation, did it not?

A.—Yes.

A.—The VanInsullin brothers.

Q.—In the financing of this corporation you allowed certain prominent people to buy stock under the market. Who were they?

A.—I remember H. F. See, Head Play, George Bernard Shaw, Mickey Mouse, Vernon Gomes, Arcturus, Marie McElroy, Broker's Tip, Kate Smith, Adolf Hitler, General Ma and who was that lady I saw you going down the St. Lawrence Waterway with last night?

Q.—That was no lady; that was the Columbia faculty. And don't dodge the issue. How did these favored notables get on your list?

Q.—With Germany dissenting?

A.—I think so.

Q.—Where were you on the night of October 3, 1929, at quarter-past Carter Glass?

A.—I was in the Polish Corridor.

Q.—What doing?

A.—We had just declared a dividend and were signing Czechs.

Q.—What was the price of those Czechs at that time?

A.—About $20.

Q.—What are they worth today?

A.—Three point two.

Q.—Is that intoxicating or not?

A.—It is considered nonintoxicating, but before prohibition our checks had a similar content.

Q.—What I am getting at, Mr. Morgan, is this: Do you consider that on a three point two basis France can pay?

A.—If she drinks enough of it, yes.

• • • •

Carter Glass (objecting)—Now, Mr. Chairman, I submit that this has gone far enough.

Chairman—What has gone far enough?

Carter Glass—All this talk about the Treaty of Versailles and whether or not there is a Santa Claus.

Chairman—I thought the questions very relevant, particularly those pertaining to Russia's intentions in the Far East. After all, the people are entitled to know whether we are to have inflation or another dry summer.

Carter Glass—But the counsel should have told this committee why those car-loadings increased and who loaded them. If we are going to talk about earmarked gold, let's say so and name the earmarkers.

Senator Couzens—You can't pull the wool over my eyes. I think Ivar Kreuger still lives and we are entitled to find out, inflation or not.

Counsel—Let us get back to my question. What was I asking you?

Witness—Who?

Counsel—How should I know?

HAVE YOU NOTICED IT?

Eleven convicts kidnaped the warden and guards of a Kansas prison the other day and broke out. It is getting so it is almost as hard for officials to remain very long in prison as it is for the convicts.

THE ULTIMATE TRIBUNAL.

"I'm going down to Washington to see Huey Long," said Elmer Twitchell today.

"What for?" we asked.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Tax on Corporation Surpluses Suggested in Lieu of Income Tax.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Instead of a sales tax, which would still further reduce the purchasing power of consumers and reduce demand and aggravate depression, the tax should be put on those best able to pay it.

Exempt from income and other taxation, except as to land, every corporation that earns less than 6 per cent dividend, and give 250,000 corporations a chance to do business profitably. In lieu of income tax, impose on the yearly surplus of every dividend-earning corporation a cumulative tax equal to .25 per cent per each 1 per cent of surplus as that surplus compares with the total of 6 per cent dividends on its paid-up common stock, and so make impossible excess profits that rob the public, and also prevent a retaining surplus in excess of 6 per cent after 6 per cent dividend has been deducted.

Such a tax might not be popular with some of the 1,800 corporations that do 66 per cent of the producing and have surpluses of from 40 per cent to over 100 per cent due to excess profits, but it would very greatly increase the buying power and prosperity of 90 per cent of our people, which is the only possible way to restore better business, and it would avert revolution, which a sales tax would help to precipitate.

Happenings of Interest in Washington Society

Roosevelts Attend Naval Academy Graduation.

THE PRESIDENT WAS ACCOMPANIED to Annapolis yesterday morning by Mrs. Roosevelt, where he delivered the principal address and presented diplomas to the graduating class of the Naval Academy.

Those in the presidential party included the President's cousin, Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt, of New York; Miss Esther Lake, Miss Elizabeth Read, of New York, who are guests at the White House; Mrs. Malvina Thompson Scheider, Miss Marguerite LeHand, Miss Grace Tully, Mr. Marvin H. McIntyre and Mr. Stephen T. Early.

Mrs. Roosevelt wore an all white costume, the gown being made with little cap sleeves. Before her departure Mrs. Roosevelt held her morning conference with the newspaper women. At the conference was the Secretary of Labor, Miss Frances Perkins, who told the newspaper women of the two experimental camps being established in New York State for young unemployed unmarried women. Little Sistie Dall, granddaughter of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, remained with her grandmother during the conference and when Mrs. Roosevelt asked for her engagement book, the little girl brought it to her.

Sistie and her brother, Buzzie, and a party of friends attended the circus yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Roosevelt, who had friends with her for tea, received the participants in the annual spelling bee at 6 o'clock.

The Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone left Washington yesterday to sail by way of the Panama Canal for California. They are accompanied by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Stone.

Annapolis Without June Week Brides

Annapolis, Md., June 1 (A.P.).—There are to be no June Week weddings of newly commissioned ensigns in the Naval Academy Chapel this year.

Under a ruling adopted by the Navy Department last year, a ban is placed on marriages for a two-year period, after graduation. This year's class is the first to be affected.

In former years, many of the young ensigns, attired in their spotless white uniforms, gold braid and shining swords, led their fiancees to the altar as soon as possible after receiving commissions.

Prince Carl of Sweden Pleased by World Fair

Chicago, June 1 (A.P.).—Mr. "C. Watson" did the World Fair today, quietly and without fanfare. When he finished he announced himself as Prince Carl, nephew of Gustav V of Sweden.

His comment on the Century of Progress Exposition: "It's the most different fair I've ever seen, and I like it. Many of the exhibits are right in my line. At school I have studied the steel industry."

CAREFUL DEFENSE.

MANY hands have been described in this column, showing the workings of the coup, both simple and grand, wherein an opposing trump honor is captured by means of the Declarer shortening himself sufficiently in trumps to finally enable himself at the twelfth trick to lead through it.

Today's hand deals with a very fine Defensive play which enabled the opponents to forestall an impending coup by the Declarer and thereby defeat the contract. The hand was:

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
1♠	1♡	3♠	Pass
3♠(1)	Pass	4♠(2)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South has opened with close to a minimum hand, but in view of North's free bid at the range of thtree and his very fine fit with North's suit he sees hope of game. Since five clubs seems to him to be pretty difficult South decides to rebid his spades and hopes North can support them.

2—North, although he holds only the Ten and 7 of Spades, correctly decides he must contract for game and since he does not hold a heart stopper it must be in spades. Opposite a rebid suit the holding of the Ten and one is sufficient to raise, provided the outside strength is there.

West won the first two tricks with the Ace and King of hearts and then quite correctly shifted to diamonds, which Declarer immediately won with the Ace in Dummy. The Ten of spades was now led from Dummy and allowed to hold the trick, and on a second spade lead East went up with the Ace. It was at this point that East made a very fine defensive play. Most players in East's position would rather hurriedly try to cash the King of diamonds for the setting trick. These players would all then see the contract of four spades fulfilled against them. This particular East player realized that if there were a diamond trick for him he would shortly get it, or if he did not get it, he would have a sure trump trick. Furthermore, he realized that if Declarer had held a singleton diamond he might very well be able to shorten himself enough to finally capture the Queen of spades.

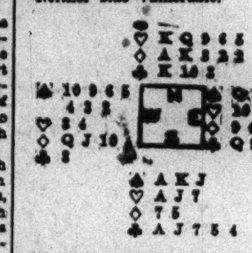
East knew that he would be compelled to follow the three leads of clubs and Declarer would eventually be able to lead through him from Dummy at the twelfth trick. Therefore this East player, after a few moments' hesitation, immediately led back a club. This play defeated the contract. The defense had gotten the jump, and South, finding himself unable to sufficiently shorten his trump holding to coup East's Queen, was finally compelled to give up the last trick.

Note what would have happened had East returned the diamond King. After winning the trick with a low spade Declarer would have then cashed his queen of hearts. A low club would have been led to Dummy and another diamond ruffed in the South hand. The leads of the Ace and Knave of clubs would have left the lead in Dummy on the twelfth trick and poor East would have been helpless. No matter what card Declarer chose to lead from Dummy he would win the last two tricks which the King and Knave of spades in his own hand.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

How should North and South bid the hands below to reach the correct final contract?

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

The Volkfest, under auspices of the Club Edelweiss, of Philadelphia, will be attended by residents of Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. Fascinating south German costumes, the celebrated ribbon dance, Styrian peasant and Wirelese jealousy dances, will be featured.

Walch Grove can be reached by automobile by way of Defense Highway, thence to Crain Highway (route 3). Reserved buses leave between 1 and 3 p. m. either from 1416 F street northwest, or from Fifteenth and H streets northeast. The round trip rate is 60 cents. For reservations phone National 1078.

NEW SEAT PLEASANT BANK INCORPORATED

Leo J. Naughton, Secretary of Southern Maryland Trust, Is Cashier.

The incorporators of the New Seat Pleasant Bank, Seat Pleasant, Md., were named yesterday.

The new bank has been formed from the Southern Maryland Trust Co., now operating on a restricted basis.

According to Walter Green, attorney for the new bank, the incorporators, who will represent the stockholders of the trust company, will include seven men. They are as follows:

W. Samuel Collins, of Seat Pleasant; Walter J. Hayward, superintendent of the Chesapeake Beach Railroad; Daniel G. Joseph, Seat Pleasant; Frederick L. Watkins, Seat Pleasant; George W. Wells, Mount Rainier, and Frederick L. Wight, jr.

A total of 2,500 shares of stock has been sold at $20 per share. This gives the bank a capitalization of $25,000 and surplus of $25,000. The institution is expected to operate on a 100 per cent basis.

"An organization meeting will be held in the next few days," Green said, "for the purpose of adopting by-laws and electing a board of directors. It is expected that Leo J. Naughton, secretary of the trust company, will assume the duties of cashier of the new bank."

The Meanderer

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4305, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Miniatures of Presidents and their wives—of diplomats—of charming children, bits of artistry worth hundreds of dollars; canvases of the famous, the wealthy, the influential hanging in effective gallery-like arrangement; volumes of likenesses of important persons from all over the world; autographed studies of delegates in world conferences; carefully filed negatives recording faces and deeds of the famous—sometimes the infamous—side by side in their shelved manila envelopes in the basement—all these and more the Meanderer saw in a privileged tour of an F street studio, the working home of busy people known to be among the world's best photographers for 30 years.

Resplendent, immaculate came an admiral of the United States Navy to the studio for a sitting. His photograph was made speedily, with perfect ease on his part. A tactful, efficient young woman in charge of such studio guests told the Meanderer that important persons were easily photographed.

"A high official from Japan asked me to help him look important before the camera," the young woman so efficient in the studio told the Meanderer. "But I told him that important persons do not need assistance in looking important. They just about always look the part—simply and easily."

The files kept for 27 years in this photographer's studio include of course negatives of persons in private walks of life, as well as those in prominent places. Studies of Washington debutantes may be extracted, if the originals of the pictures so desire, to be compared with the matronly likenesses recently made of the same subjects. Indeed, negatives of infant pictures of hundreds of Washingtonians now in their late twenties might be unearthed in these files.

Records, you might say, in black and white—or it might be in sepia—or in the delicate tinting by the artist in miniatures who has done the same work for nearly 30 years—or in oil by the young Austrian employed by the studio, who is now studying in Munich, of much of the colorful life of the National Capital are in this spot the Meanderer investigated. Her investigation was inspired by the knowledge that this studio offers exquisite miniatures for as little as $25. With an order of photographs, the miniature work is offered at a still lower price.

Oval frames that are suitable for miniatures, and the folding cases for their protection are available in the studio. In this month of graduations and weddings, records for the years, for the family archives are being made in this busy place many times a day.

LIVING STANDARDS HELD AIDED BY ADS

Barkdull Declares Publicity Spurs Desire for Things That Create Work.

How advertising has played an important part in the advancement of living standards in the United States was outlined last night in a radio talk by Walter D. Barkdull, president of the Advertising Club of Washington, over Station WMAL.

Speaking on the Washington Community Forum period, sponsored by the Community Chest, Mr. Barkdull was introduced by Elwood Street, director of the Chest.

In explaining how the standard of living has been consistently advanced through the medium of advertising, Mr. Barkdull said that the public has been educated with respect to new inventions, healthful foods, improved commodities and style of dress.

Luxury to Necessity.

"Advertising has created a desire for these things," he declared, "and we have worked harder and more intelligently to earn money with which to buy them. These advanced living standards are responsible for the employment of millions of persons in the United States, who are kept busy in supplying these increasing wants."

Mr. Barkdull pointed out that the country needs a new product that will work its way from a luxury to a necessity, as did the electric light. This, he said, would aid greatly in solving the unemployment problem.

Mercantile Capital.

"The Advertising Club," he said, "proposes to unite the advertisers who represent the business concerns of Washington, not only in more truthful advertising, but also in more effective advertising, to create a belief in Washington as a market for its own community and for the surrounding territory and in the economic and human resources of our community."

Concluding his talk, Mr. Barkdull pointed to his club as a medium to stimulate more effective and truthful advertising; to develop confidence in Washington and its institutions and to help Washington take a position as the mercantile capital of the great region of which it is the center.

Felled Child Found Helpless in Street

Apparently struck by a hit-and-run driver, 3-year-old Herbert S. Brown, son of E. C. Brown, 1825 New Hampshire avenue northwest, was found seriously injured in the street near his home early last night by a passing motorist. Taken to Emergency Hospital, the child was found to have suffered a fracture of his left leg and severe bruises about the body.

Isaac Kossow, of 2757 Woodley place northwest, who took the child to the hospital and notified his parents, said he found him laying in the street.

The parents were unable to account for the boy being in the street, as he had been playing with his sister, Jean, 7 years old, a short time before he was found injured.

Justice Resigns First Day on Job

Harry Bennett, whose appointment as justice of the peace for Takoma Park, Md., became effective yesterday, resigned on the same day, according to J. Bond Smith, president of the Montgomery Government Club for Takoma Park. Former Police Justice A. L. Wilson has been recommended to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie by the Government Club.

Appointment of Wilson will heal the breach in the ranks of the club which followed recommendation that Judge Bennett be appointed. Bennett is understood to have been offered a good position to return to the Ford Motor Co., with which he was associated for 16 years.

Judge Wilson was police justice until the circuit court upheld contention of Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel for a defendant sentenced to be whipped at the post of alleged wife-beating by Judge Wilson, that the post of police justice was unconstitutional. The last Legislature created the post of another justice of the peace for the town.

Told to Quit

Resignation of Only Woman Immigration Commissioner Directed.

Boston, June 1 (A.P.).—The resignation of Mrs. Anna C. M. Tillinghast, commissioner of immigration for this district, tonight brought widespread speculation over the appointment of her successor.

Mrs. Tillinghast was the only woman immigration commissioner in the United States. Her term was due to expire in January, 1935, but she was asked by Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, to quit office at once. No reason was given for the request and no hint was given as to her successor.

Mrs. Tillinghast was appointed January 13, 1927, by President Coolidge. She succeeded John F. Johnson, of Worcester, who died in office. She has played a prominent part in Republican State politics.

MATHEW H. O'BRIEN HEADS G. W. ALUMNI

Other Officers Elected by Law College Body at Annual Meeting.

Mathew H. O'Brien was elected president of the Alumni Association of the George Washington University College of Law last night at the annual meeting. Charles A. Miller was named first vice president; Olive Geiger, second vice president, and Paul Shorb, third vice president. H. Clay Espey, Vivian Simpson and Thomas Lodge were chosen members of the executive board.

The board of bar examiners of the District were asked to make public statistics showing the percentage of successful candidates for admission to the bar from the various schools in a resolution adopted last night by the Alumni Association. It was contended this information should be available for students of law.

A resolution was also adopted expressing regret over the forced retirement of John Paul Earnest, professor of law at the university for 30 years, under the 70-year age limit.

Brother Identifies Man Found Dead at Bridge

A young man killed by a railroad train May 11 at the overhead bridge on upper King street, Alexandria, has been identified as Jimmie Phifer, 18, of Clayton, N. C. The body was buried the day following the accident, in Penny Hill Cemetery, Alexandria's potter's field.

News of the identification of the body was received yesterday by Police Capt. John S. Arnold. Photographs and other marks of identification had been sent to the young man's brother by Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims. The body will, it is understood, be exhumed and taken to Clayton for burial.

Medley Unopposed In Delegate Race

With midnight last night the deadline for persons seeking to qualify as candidates for the House of Delegates and membership on the Democratic committee, indications were that William D. Medley will be unopposed for the Democratic nomination for the House of Delegates in Arlington County.

While John Locker Green has announced as the independent candidate, Hugh Reid, Democratic incumbent, has remained silent as to his intentions.

B. M. SMITH NAMED TO ARLINGTON BOARD

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Benjamin M. Smith, life-long resident of Arlington, Arlington County, and one of its leading business men, was yesterday appointed by Judge Walter T. McCarthy of the Circuit Court to fill the unexpired term of John C. Gall, member of the county board, resigned.

Mr. Smith, who is one of the county's leading Democrats, is a cousin of Representative Howard W. Smith, of the Eighth Congressional District, of which Arlington County is a part. As a member of the board Mr. Smith will attend his first meeting tomorrow morning at the courthouse.

Organization of the Old Dominion Bank, which replaces the People's State Bank of Cherrydale, was perfected at a meeting held in the Washington-Lee High School auditorium with the election of nine directors.

It was stated at the meeting that the opening of the new bank is contingent upon the payment of certain loans now being held by the People's State Bank. It is hoped that these matters will be cleared up within the next few days in order that the new institution may open its doors about June 15.

Among the speakers who urged all to support the new institution were Wilton J. Lambert, Washington attorney, and William Mosley Brown, of Arlington County. R. F. B. Steele, representing the State banking department, attended the meeting.

Alexandria Awaits Analysis of "Beer"

Three persons whose places of business on King street, Alexandria, were raided, and who were charged with having beer in their possession, had their cases continued in police court yesterday until next Tuesday. The continuance was granted, it was explained, so that the alleged beer might be analyzed by the State authorities.

The three cited into court and the quantity of alleged beer found were John Gadonas, 158 bottles; Tony Harris, 48 bottles, and Benjamin Apter, 78 bottles. Bail of $500 was furnished by each.

Fourteen warrants had been issued at the instance of Virgil Williams, State prohibition officer, and eight places of business were raided by Sergt. Kaus and Patrolmen Hicks, Brenner, Curtis, Baker and Walker. Williams stated that many complaints had been received by him relative to the illegal sale of beer in Alexandria. Other dealers are reported to have been "tipped off" as to the forthcoming raid and to have disposed of their stocks of beer. Eight raids were made simultaneously, only three of which yielded results.

Prince Georges Sheriff Off to Get Baltimorean

Deputy Sheriff Thomas Garrison, of Prince Georges County, was despatched to Baltimore yesterday to take into custody Peter Fieorra, arrested by Baltimore police in connection with the theft of a safe from a Riverdale, Md., grocery.

Katherine Coontz, Joseph Coontz and Ralph Jarratt, all of Baltimore, are awaiting a decision of the circuit judge on a motion for a new trial. They were convicted at the recent session of the court of participating in the breaking, which occurred last January.

ALEXANDRIA OFFICES FILING DATE EXPIRES

Lively Battles in Prospect for Civil and Police Justice and Delegate.

Yesterday was the last day upon which candidates desiring to enter the Democratic primary to be held in Alexandria August 1 could file notices of candidacy. While several of the incumbents will be unopposed, there is a lively fight promised for the offices of civil and police justice, and for the House of Delegates. There is also opposition to some of the incumbent members of the city Democratic committee, two members of which will be chosen from each of the six wards.

Commissioner of Revenue Charles H. Callahan, City Sergt. Robert H. Cox, City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan and Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan, are all unopposed.

For the House of Delegates, the candidates are J. Fred Birrell, incumbent; Harry F. Kennedy, Paul Delaney, Joseph H. Kretchmer, Clyde B. Lanham and Thomas W. Priest.

For civil and police justice the candidates are William S. Show, incumbent; Irving Diener and Frederick G. Duvall. Mr. Duval was the first to hold this office in Alexandria under the comparatively recent law creating the office.

Diplomas Awarded Class of 7 Nurses

Seven nurses, comprising the last class to be graduated from the Alexandria Hospital Training School, were awarded their diplomas last night in the auditorium of the Virginia Public Service Building. Employment of student nurses in the hospital will be discontinued September 15, and those now enrolled will be transferred to other hospitals to complete their courses.

The graduates were Miss Mary Jane Smoot, of Ballston; Miss Lucy Elizabeth Davis, of Brokenburg; Miss Mary Jane Jesse, of Lynchburg; Miss Bernice Norton, of Alexandria; Miss Virginia Lorraine Norton, of Alexandria; Miss Lorraine Ford, of Richmond; Miss Mildred Vernon Johnson, of Lignum, and Miss Gertrude Elizabeth Simms, of Alexandria. Miss Mary Jane Jesse was announced as the winner of the Frances P. Monroe prize.

Jobs for Women Urged By Anthony Foundation

A resolution asking for legislation providing employment for women was adopted at the recent meeting of the Susan B. Anthony Foundation at Rosslyn, Va. The group expressed the belief that both men and women should be considered in any project for putting the unemployed to work.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. Anna E. Hendley, honorary president; Mrs. Rose Arnold Powell, president; Mrs. Ada Van Loon MacGee, vice president, and Mrs. Percy M. Bailey, secretary-treasurer.

Conduit Road Firemen Meet.

The Conduit Road Fire Board, Inc., will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Glen Echo, Md., firehouse to further perfect details of organization incident to the report of the finance and by-laws committees, Clarence W. Sands, secretary, announced yesterday.

CLUB GIVES DINNER FOR GIRL GRADUATES

150 Alexandria Students Are Invited; School Principals Honor Guests.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

Approximately 150 girls who will graduate next week from the seventh grade of the Alexandria public schools will be guests of the Business and Professional Women's Club at dinner at 6:30 o'clock tonight in the George Mason Hotel. Miss Elizabeth Ramey, president of the club, will welcome the guests. Honor guests will be R. W. Eaves, principal of the Jefferson School, and C. H. Strader, principal of the Mount Vernon School.

This dinner is an annual feature of the Business and Professional Woman's Club, its purpose being to encourage girls who have successfully passed their seventh grade to continue their education by entering high school. The club maintains a fund which is devoted to the aid of girls whose finances would prevent their meeting the expenses of a high school education.

The principal speaker of the evening will be Mrs. Robert P. Griggs, wife of Dr. Griggs, of George Washington University, and entertainment features will include a group of songs by Lawrence Allsop, of the Alice Deal Junior High School in Washington; violin solos by Jean Davenport, of Culpeper; reading of original poems by Jean Craighead, and rhythmic orchestra music under the direction of Mrs. D. C. Book.

Glenmont Players Perform Tonight.

The Glenmont Players will present their annual spring revue tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Glenmont School. Three one-act plays will be offered under the direction of Miss Edna Hardy.

Stocks Renew Advances, Headed by Metals and Rails

Trading Quieted Down as Sales Decreased to 4,753,300 Shares.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Financial markets quieted down today. Stocks were a bit choppy in the morning, but buyers again polished up the metal shares and later the rails, with the result that final prices were higher, though moderately so in many cases.

Business news maintained its recent reputation for cheerfulness. Stocks were much more lively on advances than on declines, but turnover was reduced to 4,753,300 shares.

General Motors and General Electric were fractionally higher. Metal issues flourished nearly all day. Anaconda Copper rallied a couple of points, while Kennecott, American Smelting, U. S. Smelting and Cerro de Pasco gained one or more. American Can, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Goodrich, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, National Biscuit, International Harvester and Du Pont firmed approximately a point. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, General Motors and General Electric, and utilities as a group lagged.

Canadian Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Lackawanna, Baltimore & Ohio, New York, Ontario & Western, Southern Railway and New York Central were among the prominent rails. Delaware & Hudson, which has a sizeable paper profit on its central investment, climbed 3, but could not hold the top. National Distillers, Libby-Owens-Ford Atlantic Refining and U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Cudahy contributed to the list of advances. J. I. Case zipped up 5 points.

Stocks.

Trading quieted down. Prices advanced seven-tenths of a point under the leadership of metals and rails. The turnover was 4,753,300 shares.

Bonds.

New highs for the year were reached again, in spite of profit-taking and lighter sales. The turnover dropped to $14,971,000.

Curb.

Oils and metals drove the curb into higher ground. Sales volume decreased to 671,000 shares.

Wheat.

New inflation developments gave wheat a sharp upward turn. The market, however, closed irregular, with corn and oats up a fraction. May wheat sold at 73⅜ to 73¼ cents.

Cotton.

Market changes were irregular. Early losses yielded to rallies on renewal of buying. July sold at 9.28. Prices at the close were off 13 to 14 points.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Gold mining shares were weak in the early trading of the stock exchange today due to further consideration of South African tax proposals but improved later on bear covering. Gilt-edged securities were supported on reinvestment of dividends while some foreign issues hardened. Transatlantic issues, oil shares and Argentine rails weakened. The market closed irregular.

Paris—The boom in rentes as a result of the voting of the budget by Parliament together with the firmness of Bank of France stock strengthened prices on the bourse after early heaviness. Gold mining shares, however, reacted on the South African taxation plans. The closing was firm.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse improved somewhat today and closed sustained.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Steel prices unchanged.

CURB PUSHED HIGHER BY OILS AND METALS

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Strength in oils and metal shares imparted a firm appearance to the curb market today, after earlier irregularity.

Utilities unsettled by some late selling but numerous other issues closed near their best levels of the day. Trading continued active approximately 671,000 shares being transferred, against 950,000 on Wednesday.

Among industrial issues General Tire & Rubber added 8 points.

Advances of 1 to more than 3 points were scored by several metals issues, including Bunker Hill & Sullivan, New Jersey Zinc, Hecla Mining and Newmont. Consolidated Copper Mines firmed a sizeable fraction.

Electric Power Yield Rises To Highest Mark Since '30

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Electric power output for the week ended May 27 was 4.8 per cent greater than in the same week last year, marking the largest gain over the previous year since the week ended February 1, 1930. It was also the fourth consecutive increase over the 1932 period.

The week's output, as reported by the Edison Electric Institute, was 1,493,923,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,483,090,000 in the preceding week and 1,425,151,000 in the corresponding week last year.

Expansion in production over the previous week was again contrary to the usual seasonal trend and brought the figure to the highest since the week of January 14 last.

The Atlantic Seaboard region had a gain of 6.3 per cent over last year compared with a rise of 5 per cent in the previous week; New England was 11.2 per cent higher against a 7.1 per cent rise the week before; the Central industrial district improved 5.4 per cent against 3.5 per cent, and the Pacific Coast was off 7.3 per cent against a loss of 7.2 per cent in the previous week.

BANK OF FRANCE.

Paris, June 1 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold increased 21,000,000; sight balances abroad increased 6,000,000; bills discounted at home increased 340,000,000; bills bought abroad unchanged; advances increased 45,000,000; circulation decreased 100,000,000; current accounts increased 475,000,000.

BONDS IN NEW HIGHS AGAIN ON LIGHT SALE

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Although subjected to considerable profit-taking, the bond market rallied in late trading today and finished at another new high level for the year.

The average for 60 domestic corporate loans closed two-tenths of a point higher at 76.3. Sales totaled $14,971,000, par value, as against $16,114,000 yesterday.

Some of the low-priced rail and industrial specialties were principally responsible for the recovery.

United States Government securities were rather dull and mixed. In the foreign section bonds of Japan, Sao Paulo and some of the Germans were up a point or more. Issues of Argentine, Australia, Austria, France and Norway were off from 1 to around 3 points.

Copper Sells at 8 Cents; Highest Since July, '31

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Copper resumed its climb today at an accelerated pace. Two advances of ⅛ cent established the metal at the 8-cent mark, which stands as the highest since July, 1931.

The trade heard that a fair tonnage changed hands at the high quotation. Some producers did not close transactions at 8 cents, it was said, but the market appeared to be well established at the new level.

Bank Rate Unchanged.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced no change today in the rediscount rate of 2½ per cent.

GRAIN VALUES RISE ON INFLATION NEWS

Market Closes Irregular, With Corn ½ Higher and Oats Mixed.

Chicago, June 1 (A.P.).—Reports that new inflationary developments at Washington were forthcoming brought about a sharp recovery of grain values today, and offset early losses.

Eastern interests took the lead in late buying that accompanied stock market upturns. Among rumors current was one that the United States would reduce the gold content of the dollar.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼ off to ¼ up, compared with yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅛ higher; oats at ⅜ decline to a shade advance, and provisions showing 7 to 12 cents setback.

Market Weak at First.

At first the wheat market was weakened by correct general belief that June private estimates of 1932 domestic production of wheat would prove larger than last month's official forecasts. The estimates averaged 357,000,000 bushels of winter wheat and 270,000,000 of spring, against the Government predictions of 337,000,000 winter wheat this season and a spring wheat harvest of 262,000,000 bushels in 1932. Later attention was focused more on the fact that today's unofficial reports suggested the United States 1933 probable total yield of wheat would be 100,000,000 bushels less than was harvested last year, and 213,000,000 under the 1926-30 average.

One leading expert made the condition of winter wheat 63 per cent, slightly lower than a month ago and with one exception the lowest June condition ever reported. He said the past month should have been favorable for wheat growth, but in spite of cool weather and ample moisture, the crop failed to register any pronounced recovery. Arrival of the first car of the 1933 domestic wheat harvest was reported today by Fort Worth, Tex., but had no apparent market effect, the trade at the last being largely governed by prospective inflation happenings.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Tentative figures on corn indicated 104,000,000 acres might be planted this season, compared with 107,729,000 harvested last year.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 72½@72⅝, 74¾; September, 74¾@74½, 76¾@76⅝; December, 77¼@77⅜, 79⅝@79¾. Corn, July, 44⅜, 45¾; September, 47¼, 48¾@48½; December, 50, 51¾.

COTTON PRICES RISE AFTER EARLY DROPS

July Sells at 9.18 With General Market Down 13 to 14 Points.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Cotton was irregular today with an early decline promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and favorable crop advices, followed by rallies on a renewal of the recent buying movement.

October closed at 9.41. The final tone was steady at net declines of 2 to 9 points. The opening was 6 to 11 points lower in response to the relatively easy showing of Liverpool. Initial offerings were quite readily absorbed.

July sold from 9.18 to 9.05 and December from 9.58 to 9.47, making net losses of about 13 to 14 points, but this decline brought in more trade and commission house buying while covering was promoted by rallies in the stock and grain markets.

July Sells at 9.28.

July sold up to 9.28 and December to 9.70 making net advances of about 6 to 9 points, but the market eased again in the late trading and closing quotations were 10 to 18 points off from the best of the day.

Three private crop reports were issued with estimates of the acreage ranging from an increase of about 9.4 to 11 per cent. Condition figures were from 65.6 to 73 per cent and accompanying crop indications from 13,090,000 up to 14,500,000 bales.

Reports from the domestic goods market said business was quiet but prices firm. Sales of spot cotton are said to have been made to domestic mills for June shipments, partly against cotton recently purchased from the Red Cross. Mills are also said to be making inquiries for new crop cotton for late fall shipment.

Liverpool cables said that trade buying had been supplied by further liquidation there. Exports today, 34,641, making 7,198,938 so far this season. Port receipts, 7,382. U. S. Port stocks, 3,918,764.

TWO CUBANS DYING AFTER CAPITOL DUEL

Representative and Colonel Wounded; Scion of Prominent Family Held.

Havana, June 1 (A.P.).—Representative Oscar Montalvo was wounded critically today in a sensational pistol fight in Cuba's new capitol building.

Mario Cuellar, secretary of Representative-elect Juan Daniel Byrne, and youngest member of the politically powerful family of Cuellar, gave himself up to police and was confined in the municipal prison. Hospital attendants said they did not expect Montalvo would survive his wounds.

Col. Felipe Sanchez, retired army officer, was shot through the head during the gunplay and it was believed at the hospital that he, too, probably would die.

The shooting occurred in the Senate conference hall, just after members of the joint Senate and House commission had finished discussing an amnesty bill for political offenses.

Montalvo was shot while standing just beneath the oil painting of the late Senate President Clemente Vasquez Bello, who was assassinated last September 27. Montalvo served Vasquez Bello many years as private secretary and it was the patronage of the veteran politician that elevated Montalvo first to the oce of the Senate's master at arms and later placed him in a position to run successfully for representative from Matanzas.

Witnesses, including Senate President Alberto Barreras, said Cuellar accosted Montalvo just as he entered the conference hall and asked him if he had written an article recently published attacking the Cuellars. Witnesses said Montalvo acknowledged he had.

They asserted that Cuellar drew his pistol and fired three times, but not before Montalvo had broken his heavy walking cane over his assailant's shoulder. As he was falling, witnesses said, Montalvo drew his own pistol and fired twice.

It was not determined who fired the bullet which wounded Col. Sanchez, a bystander, who is 61 years old.

SHERWOOD'S FLIGHT IS CALLED 'LOYALTY'

Mystery Trip Voluntary, He Says, to Shield Walker From Embarrassment.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Russell T. Sherwood, one of the "mystery men" of the Hofstadter investigation into New York city's government, sat in the basement of a Hoboken cafe today and told why he had hidden himself away for 21 months.

It was his "loyalty" to former Mayor James J. Walker, who resigned during the inquiry that led him to disappear, Sherwood told newspapermen who had been led to the restaurant by William Druggan, collector of internal revenue.

"Mr. Sherwood has been in touch with me for about two months—to be exact, since about a week before Easter," said Druggan, who had been negotiating with the accountant for settlement of a $49,000 income tax claim.

His face ashen gray and his hands twitching nervously, Sherwood answered a fusillade of questions, but on his attorney's advice declined to go into the details of the charges made by Samuel Seabury during the investigation.

Asked why his presence at the hearings would have "embarrassed" Walker, Sherwood replied:

"I was in the office where he had space for 15 years. I took care of matters of a purely personal nature. I didn't feel disposed to be called upon to answer to personal matters, out of a feeling of loyalty to him."

Sherwood said his refusal to respect a subpena served on him in Mexico City was "a voluntary act on my part by reason of my association with Mr. Walker and my desire not to interfere with matters I regarded as personal affairs."

Sherwood said he hoped to settle the income tax claim and indicated he would attempt to have the supreme court purge him of contempt for ignoring the subpena—a charge that resulted in a $50,000 fine and his keeping in seclusion in New Jersey.

Walker never paid him for his services, he said, but he added he had received gifts from the former mayor.

Coal Tests

Reveal Substitute for Use When Natural Beds Are Exhausted.

The question of the future, "What will we use in place of coal when our natural coal beds are exhausted?" has been at least partially answered by some recent experiments in the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Telephone engineers, while searching for a better understanding of the fundamental principles of coal formation, in order to be able to select the best anthracite for manufacture into transmitter carbon, have actually developed a process for the manufacture of anthracite coal. Furthermore, these engineers have produced by this new process a grade of coal which compares in luster and hardness and apparent density with natural anthracite. This synthetic product is made from a combination of birchwood, cotton cloth, sugar and jute fiber of high lignin content. These raw materials are treated under carefully regulated combinations of pressures and temperatures, with the result that coal is produced in a few hours which closely resembles that which has taken ages for nature to produce.

While this new coal burns slowly and with little or no flame, as does natural anthracite, it is admitted that the experiments to date have not produced a grade of coal which meets the tests of the finest "hard coal." Nevertheless, it seems probable that further experimentation, varying the many determining factors, would ultimately reveal a procedure for producing anthracite at least as good as the natural product.

Such experiments are not contemplated at this time, however, since the condition of natural beds of anthracite suggests no pressing needs for substitutes.

Ernest Mitchell Dies In Elevator Shaft Fall

Chicago, June 1 (A.P.).—Ernest I. Mitchell, 55, advertising company president and clubman, was fatally injured today when he stepped into an open elevator shaft in the lobby of an office building.

Mitchell fell 25 feet, into a subbasement, and died in a hospital 20 minutes later.

120 BOATS ENTERED FOR MARINE PARADE

Yachting Season Will Open Sunday Afternoon on Potomac.

Approximately 120 boats already are entered for the first marine parade, which opens the yachting season on the Potomac Sunday afternoon, and Secretary L. Gordon Leech expects that more than 150 decorated boats will be in line for the parade. This was announced yesterday by Commander E. H. Tennent, commodore of the Capital Yacht Club and grand marshal of the parade. Sightseers may obtain good views on the Speedway, up to the railroad bridge, and, through the courtesy of officials at the Army War College, the grounds there will be thrown open to the public Sunday.

The parade, according to Commodore R. Lyman Sexton, of the Corinthian Yacht Club, who is general chairman of the committee, will start from rendezvous down the river from Hains Point at 2:30 o'clock, and proceed up the Georgetown Channel to a point near the railroad bridge and then down the channel and around Hains Point, passing in review before the United States Coast Guard ship Apache. From there it will proceed up the west side of the Washington Channel to a point opposite the Norfolk & Washington steamboat Wharf, returning down the east side of the channel along the Washington Barracks and up the Eastern Branch to the navy yard. The parade will be followed by a spectacular demonstration arranged by the speed boat division.

The boats will parade 50 yards apart, with 100 yards between divisions of squadrons and 200 yards between squadrons. John A. Remon, chairman of the reviewing committee, who is also general chairman of the President's Cup regatta committee, has arranged for a distinguished reviewing committee, headed by Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson.

To the

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES

PLEDGED as we are in our constitution to full and adequate justice to those veterans actually disabled in line of duty, and to the dependents of those who lost their lives in war service, we, AS VETERANS, have a profound interest in the provisions of the Economy Act as they affect the benefits to the actually war disabled.

We have reason to believe that the revision in the original provisions of the executive regulations now under way will restore to those deserving veterans the benefits to which they are entitled as a result of their service to the country.

AS VETERANS we ask the members of both Houses to extend the Administration this same support, pending the announcement of its revised program, in the belief that the President will do justice to the war dead, justice to the war injured, justice to the American People.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE State Department has asked the Radio Commission to cooperate in furnishing any desired frequencies or other facilities as a courtesy to the twenty Italian planes which expect to fly here for the Chicago Exposition of Progress. As yet the Italian government has not applied for any definite frequencies for their fliers, but these will no doubt be forthcoming when they do.

A new series of contemporary dramas, based on actual current events, thus adding an extra note of realism, will be launched with the first dramatization of "The Gold Rush" on the North American continent today. It will be heard over the WJZ network at 7 p. m., but not WMAL.

The series is founded on events taking place right now in northern Canada, where little more than a year ago two brothers discovered gold near the lumber village of Gogama and precipitated the greatest and most lasting gold rush in the history of the world.

Claims already staked number almost 2,000 and the list mounts daily. Whereas in '49 covered wagons labored across the plains to the gold of California, the pace today is faster and the stakes higher. Every modern device is employed to make the take of pay dirt richer and more easily accessible. Fast aeaplanes take off from the outposts of civilization and drop the trappers-turned-prospectors deep in the wilderness.

Grace Moore will appear in the first of a new series of variety programs over WJSV tonight. The program, featuring Lou Holtz, comedian, in addition to Miss Moore, will be broadcast at 9 o'clock. Norman Brokenshire will return to the air in his familiar role as announcer for this program.

ALL of the cast in the Omega Gamma Sorority dance, a program which will make its bow over WJSV tonight at 9:30 o'clock, are said to be college graduates and well know the atmosphere of the setting for the sketches. Harold Stern and his orchestra will provide the music for the dance, which takes place at the Omega Gamma Sorority House.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, although he had a microphone within arm's reach while he watched the opening of the Century of Progress Exposition, refused three times to go on the air.

"It's my brother's show," he explained. "He's done a good job, and I don't want to steal any of his thunder."

Gene Rouse, announcer who described the opening of the exposition from a blimp, got more thrills than he bargained for. The ship, after sailing around for four hours, "as calmly as if we were in a bowl of milk," thirty seconds before Rouse was scheduled to go on the air, struck a downward air current and dropped from 1,500 to 800 feet. Later, after Rouse had completed his broadcast, cross-currents off the lake kept the blimp from landing for almost an hour.

Gracie Allen—"It's too bad they went to all the trouble building the Chicago fair when it is only going to last two days."

Stooge—"Who told you that?"

Gracie—"Well, I saw a sign which read 'fair today and tomorrow.'"

THROUGH a letter received from Mrs. Warren F. Low, of Colrain, Mass., Capt. Taylor Branson, leader of the Marine Band, learned of an unusual coincidence in connection with a broadcast of the "Shut-In" Hour.

"As we got the last part of the 'Shut-In' concert last Friday we were sitting by the bedside of a dear old aunt, 92 years old, while she was passing out of this life," Mrs. Low wrote.

"The two verses of 'Abide With Me,' played by the Marine Band, were as a steadying, comforting help through the sad time and made us feel that some unseen power were really abiding with us."

Dr. Frank N. Freeman, professor of educational psychology at the University of Chicago, will explain the purpost of the first intelligence quotient test to be conducted over the air when he speaks tonight at 9:15 o'clock over WMAL.

Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight boxing champion, will appear with Edwin C. Hill on the "Inside Story" program over WJSV at 9:30 p. m.

Introduced by the music of "In Beauty's Bower," a new and unusual series of orchestral programs will be inaugurated tonight with a large concert orchestra under Joseph Littau.

The title of the series, "Pastoral," aptly describes the musical content of the programs, which will be heard each Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock over WMAL.

IT isn't often that a symphony orchestra breaks down so completely while playing over the air that it has to quit and begin all over. In fact, we never knew of such a case. Yet we heard just that thing happen from New York Tuesday night.

The first violin evidently got off the track. Whatever it was, it threw the entire orchestra out. The marvel to us, with all the cuts orchestras have to make for the radio and the little time allowed them for rehearsals, is that this sort of thing doesn't happen more often.

Therefore we'll have a heart and not add to the conductor's embarrassment by making the name of the orchestra public.

Ed Wynn spoke of "50,000-watt radio cigars." They are easy to pick up, he said.

The period of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs, given every Friday morning at 11 o'clock over Station WMAL, will this morning be devoted to "Echoes of the Council Meeting of the General Federation at Richmond," and the report will be given by Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, the president of the District of Columbia Federation, who has just returned from this biennial meeting.

Joe Rosenblatt held the big cymbals and his breath for a whole number, but when B. A. Rolfe gave him the beat for the big crash Joe swung mightily—and missed!

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

One of the paradoxical aspects of Greenwich Village is the popularity it accords Edgar Lee Masters. The Bohemian-minded, Babbitt-anubbing citizenry in the vicinity of Washington Square become almost sentimental over Masters' word pictures of small town folk.

Perhaps the fact that Masters lives in a hotel near the village has something to do with it.

The Art of Begging.

Michael Arlen's complaint that New Yorkers are becoming more and more grim faced probably is brought about by the numerous panhandlers that lurk on every street corner. To stave off these bites at their loose change, passersby unconsciously assume an uninviting expression.

Many of these beggars work in pairs. If one of them succeeds in winning a coin from some generous soul, the other beggar hurries around the block and approaches the donor at the next corner.

New York Royalty.

Employes in those snooty apartment houses in Sutton place are instructed to speak to members of exiled royalty with their proper titles. It seems strange to hear a uniformed carriage starter, not long from County Cork, address the Grand Duchess Marie as "Your Imperial Highness."

In the turbulent post-war period, New York became overrun with royal exiles. Most of them came here with the hope of marrying American fortunes, and a final shaking up revealed that many of the assumed titles were spurious.

The current crop of royalty about town is of a different mold. Not only are their titles authentic, but practically all of them have succeeded in making good in various business enterprises. Their impeccable tastes make them natural successes as couturiers, perfume makers, interior decorators and artists.

A sign in a Sixth avenue printing shop advertises that firm's excellent work as printers of advertising cards, posters and circulars. An incongruent bitch is that the shop's own sign is lettered in crayon colors.

"GEMINI."

IF JUNE 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:55 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:50 a. m. to 1:10 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The child born on this June 2 will in all probability not be one to listen to temptation in any guise; a strong sense of right and wrong coupled with great love for his parents will always lead him along right paths. A great desire to lead and to come out on top is marred by a lack of grace when he loses. He must develop sportsmanship.

If June 2 is the date of your birth, you are no doubt a person who requires many comforts. You are not one who likes to "rough it," through you do so without complaining when it is necessary. You are a wholesome person and although you require a great deal of entertainment and amusement to keep you happy, your demands are of a clean and healthful nature. You have a fairly even temperament and you are blessed with better than average vision.

If June 2 is your birthday, you must guard against letting yourself become discouraged; a feeling that you are not well enough equipped to succeed sometimes takes hold of you and gives rise to discontent. You can succeed, and you will succeed, but you must know yourself. You are not a person who is attractive to those of the opposite sex. The men lack dash and ardor in their courting but they make thoughtful and considerate husbands; the women are most feminine and gracious and love the attentions of men.

Successful people born on June 2: Philip Kearney, major general. George H. Corliss, inventor. George W. Smalley, journalist.

NATS FALTER AND LOSE TO RED SOX IN 13TH, 7-5

Early Lead Vanishes as Boston Makes Four in 8th.

McAfee Batted Out; Welch Hurls Good Relief Game.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

AN improved shipment of Red Sox from Boston displayed some durable qualities at Griffith Stadium yesterday, traveling a 13-inning road to wear down the Nats and come up with a 7-5 victory in the opening game of the series.

From a Washington viewpoint, the game went to seed, or to First Baseman Bob Seeds to be exact, in the fourth extra inning when the latter whacked a triple to the right field corner off Al Thomas to score Fatty Fothergill with the winning run and send the Nats into third place behind the idling Athletics.

The 2,000 or less in the stands who should have brought their top coats in view of the June chill saw the sad spectacle of a last-place club scoring four runs off Bill McAfee and Al Crowder in the eighth to tie the score and then provide some pitching in the person of Johnny Welch which limited the Nats to three hits and no runs at all in the last six innings.

Nats Pass Up Chance In Twelfth.

The truly sad phase of the ball game occurred in the twelfth inning, when the Nats, with an excellent chance to bring the battle to a successful conclusion, failed pitiably to negotiate even a single run off Welch with the Red Sox wide open and crying for defeat.

Goose Goslin launched the twelfth with a flukey hit off the handle of his bat that twisted over Shortstop Bill Werber's head for two bases. It looked like the beginning of the end. Welch intentionally walked Cronin in the hope of a double-play chance, and then Fred Schulte betrayed everybody by his inability to sacrifice, fouling his first two attempts. He finally forced Goslin at third. Buddy Myer forced Cronin at second and Bluege grounded to Werber to terminate the threat.

Fothergill Starts Winning Rally.

Then the Red Sox went out and won the ball game off Thomas, who had been called in after Rice hit for Crowder in the eleventh. Fatty Fothergill, who is just as easy to step over as walk around, whistled a single to left with one out and Seeds pushed a hit to the right field corner that went for three bases when Goslin fell flat on his physog in giving chase. Fothergill scored from first and Oliver scored Seeds on a squeeze bunt to Kuhel.

The Nats' thirteenth-inning retaliatory measures consisted of a pop fly by Luke Sewell, a luscious strike out by Pinch Hitter Dave Harris, a single to center by Joe Kuhel and Heinie Manush's grounder, which Johnny Hodapp took on the big hop.

McAfee Is Routed By Sox.

Henry Johnson, who started for the Sox, was unraveled for a run in the first, another in the second and a third in the sixth, when Buddy Myer socked a solid triple to right center, and Bill McAfee, making his first start for the Nats this season went into the seventh with a 3-0 lead.

The Sox knocked all shutout notions out of McAfee's head with a run in the seventh and then knocked him out of the box in the eighth. The Nats had scored two runs off Welch in their half of the seventh in an attack featuring Goslin's triple and singles by Cronin and Schulte, which gave McAfee a 5-1 advantage as the eighth opened. Up to that point, Cronin had driven in 3 runs.

Bill Werber launched the eighth-inning uprising against McAfee, whose slow stuff had held the Sox well-nigh

ROWE HURLS TIGERS TO VICTORY

Chisox Defeated, 3-1; Both Clubs Held to 5 Singles.

DETROIT, June 1 (A.P.).—Ted Lyons and Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe engaged in a pitching duel today, from which the Detroit Tigers emerged victorious over the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 1.

Each team collected five hits, all singles. The lone White Sox tally came in the first inning when Swanson walked, stole second, and went home after Simmons singled to left.

Detroit scored two runs in the fourth inning on two walks, a single, an infield out and an error. Gehringer walked in the eighth inning, went to third on Stone's single, and scored on Walker's bunt.

Newark Shuts Out Yankees by 2 to 0

Ruppert Stadium, Newark, N. J., June 1 (U.P.).—The Newark Bears, leaders of the International League, today shut out the New York Yankees, leaders of the American League, 2 to 0, a feat which no major league club has been able to accomplish since August of 1931.

Player-manager Al Mamaux, of the Bears turned the trick when he spiked the Yankee big guns with 2 scanty hits.

POST MORTEMS . . .

Paul Heston, local tennis pro, whose hobby is golf, had a peculiar experience while playing in North Carolina . . . his drive lodged high in a tree . . . Tom's caddy retrieved the ball, and just for fun tried to replace it where it had hung . . . and was unable to make the ball stay put there . . . John Ringling's private tent, which is equipped with thick carpets, a butler, serving man and other fancy doo-dads, is set up every time the big top goes up . . . and the table is set and all formalities arranged for every meal . . . even though Mr. Ringling does not usually visit the grounds more than once or twice a year . . . speaking of the circus, brings to mind a story going the rounds about a well-known rassler who had just watched Trainer Clyde Beatty go through his hair-raising routine with a cageful of tigers and lions . . . just as the rassler stepped from the grounds, a 6-ounce kitty humped her back and spat at him . . . the rassler fainted dead away.

No big league club has been able to shut out the Yankees since August, 1931 . . . but two minor league clubs have turned the trick in exhibition games . . . Tony Sylvester, Bannockburn Club pro, owns putters given him by Jerry Travers, Bob Jones and George Voigt . . . and has a collection of more than 1,000 different types of golf tees . . . Dooley Mitchell is the perspiring champion of the local tennis colony . . . with Hugh Trigg ranked No. 2 perspirer and Tom Mangan No. 3 . . . Sam West and Fred Schulte, benched by injuries, returned to their respective line-ups with the Browns and the Nats yesterday . . . one riding sensation per year is developed on the winter tracks . . . Jack Westrope, who had a brilliant season at Havana, is the king of the 1933 crop . . . and has ridden eight winners in the past two days at Washington Park.

Cards in Lead In National League

Pass Idling Pirates by Beating Cubs by 6-1 Count.

CHICAGO, June 1 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals mounted to first place in the National League today on the strength of a fine job of pitching by Dizzy Dean, who held the Chicago Cubs to 6 hits, scoring a 6-to-1 triumph.

The victory was the high-flying Cardinals' seventh straight and their twelfth in thirteen starts, and hoisted them above the idle Pittsburgh Pirates by a margin of 4 percentage points.

Dean held the Cubs scoreless until the ninth inning. Three of the half dozen blows off his stuff were made during the last two frames. Meanwhile, the Cardinals worked on Guy Bush and Roy Henshaw for 11 hits, and benefitted somewhat by five fielding misplays.

Browns Beaten, 3-1; 3 Hits Off Ferrell

St. Louis, June 1 (A.P.).—Wes Ferrell allowed only three hits and the Cleveland Indians defeated the St. Louis Browns in the first game of the series today, 3 to 1.

Young Hank McDonald, making his first start for the Browns, pitched creditably but was outshone by his more experienced rival. Garms officially was not at bat because he was walked each of the four times he was up.

Shikat, Dusek Even After 2 Hours

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

FOUR hundred and sixty-five thousand Washingtonians last night missed one of the greatest wrestling shows it has been Joe Turner's good fortune to present, but the 3,500 who were present at the ball park will remember for many days to come the gruelling bout between Ernie Dusek and wily old Dick Shikat which went the full two-hour time limit and ended in no decision.

Several times during the match it appeared that Shikat would win, but when the ominous shadow of defeat fell across his path Dusek managed to wriggle free and save the day.

Three times Dusek all but gave up as Shikat almost broke a leg off bending it in the wrong direction. Referee Benny Bortnick raised his hand, ready to award the decision to the German, but each time Ernie managed to grasp the ropes and pull out of the ring and escape the apparent excruciating punishment.

Shikat Rough Wrestler.

It was a good bout from the start, picking up momentum as the minutes ticked into one hour and then two. Shikat continually pestered his opponent with a long left that would have done justice to a polished boxer. Somebody tossed a handful of peanuts in the ring and Shikat picked one up, and "beaned" the enraged Ernie, who stood in the center of the ring pleading with Bortnick to halt Shikat's tactics.

But after Shikat had applied some good old medieval punishment to Dusek's perspiring person, Ernie himself had a few innings. He worked Dick's head in between two strands of the ropes and left him dangling there like an executed convict. As Bortnick attempted to free Shikat, Ernie pulled and tugged at the ropes, all but strangling his adversary. Bortnick lifted the dazed Shikat's hand as if in victory, but the former world champion refused to take the bout on a foul and insisted on continuing the match. Later in the match Shikat pulled the same stunt on the Omaha strong boy.

Near the end both warriors tumbled from the ring and continued their warfare on the green of the infield. Bortnick called to them to come back, that all was forgiven, but his cries went unheeded. So Benny promptly began counting out both. Dusek reached the ring first, running like a kid for a stick of candy, with Shikat a close second.

As a grand finale the two caught Bortnick between them and the three went tumbling onto the mat. Bortnick finishing a bad third in the ensuing struggle.

Swede Olsen threw George McLeod in 15½ minutes with a tackle and body press in the opening preliminary. Karl Davis scored another victory in the second bout, using Tony Felice as his foil. The time was 10½ minutes. Babe Caddock tossed Andy Brown in 14½ minutes.

Hans Steinke turned on Leo Pinetzki in the semifinal and threw him after 20¼ minutes of laborious work. The huge Pole had the best of it until near the end when Steinke really went to work on him.

Giants Defeat Phils Behind Fitzsimmons

Philadelphia, June 1 (A.P.).—Steady pitching by Freddy Fitzsimmons coupled with solid hitting by his mates against Jim Elliott gave the New York Giants a 7-to-2 victory over the Phillies in the opener of a four-game series today.

McGraw to Lead All-Star Team in World Fair Game

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—John McGraw, former manager of the New York Giants, today was tendered and accepted the managership of the all-star team, which will represent the National League in a game with an all-star selection from the American League at Chicago, July 6.

McGraw, who retired from active baseball last year, was the unanimous choice of the eight National League clubs.

Chicago, June 1 (U.P.).—Tickets will be placed on sale tomorrow for the all-star baseball game between picked teams from the National and American League on July 6, it was announced today.

Each applicant will be limited to four tickets and a cashier's check or money order must accompany each application.

Tunney to Work In Congressional Game as Umpire

Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world, again will umpire bases at the Democrat-Republican Congressional baseball game Saturday, June 10, at Griffith Stadium. Tunney telegraphed his acceptance of the post to Co-chairman Tumulty and Colladay yesterday.

After the Democratic landslide last November Tunney was a bit dubious about the strength of the Republicans. He wired, "Are you sure there are enough Republicans in Washington to make up a ball team, or should I bring some with me?"

President Roosevelt has not been approached on the matter of tossing out the first ball, but it is thought that he will attend the game. Vice President Garner also is expected to attend.

TECHNIQUE, WESTROPE UP, WINS AT WASHINGTON PARK

Headley Star 2 Lengths Victor

WASHINGTON PARK, June 1 (A.P.).—Hal Price Headley's Technique, a candidate for the $25,000 added American Derby Saturday, given a brisk ride by Jack Westrope, won the best event at Washington Park today, leading Sabula over the line by two lengths.

At Top, owned by Richard and Patrick Nash, of Chicago, another Derby candidate, ran third. The showings of the eligibles indicated that neither may start in the big event Saturday. Westrope had to work on Technique in the stretch to stave off Sabula's finishing rush.

The winner ran 7 furlongs in 1:24 4-5 and paid $5.24 in the mutuels.

Westrope, the 16-year-old Montana jockey, who rode five winners yesterday, also won the third with Outbound and the seventh with Elcidio.

Sation Belmont Park Victor.

Belmont Park, June 1 (A.P.).—George D. Widener uncovered a speed marvel here today when Sation, a 2-year-old son of Galetian, making his first appearance in competition, led from end to end in the Hollis 6-furlong feature of the card. Backed from 8 down to 6 to 1, Sation registered by two lengths over a heavy track, making the fast time of 1:12 2-5. J. J. Robinson's Eva B took the place, six lengths clear of the B. B. Stable's Character, the favorite.

Sarron Defeats Datto; Wins All But 9th Round

It was the only blow of any consequence that the Filipino landed. Datto weighed 127½ pounds to Sarron's 126.

MANGAN AND GRAVEN WIN NET TITLE

Defeat Garnett and Gould in Final at Rock Creek.

TOM MANGAN, veteran tennis campaigner, and Axel Graven, defeated Muscoe Garnett and Murray Gould yesterday at Rock Creek to capture the City of Washington doubles championship.

Mangan and his partner had easy coasting in the first set, winning, 6—1, but their adversaries rallied to win the next set at 6 love. Mangan and Graven took the last two sets, 6—1, 6—0.

The doubles finals yesterday brought to a close a successful tournament, which saw Dooley Mitchell win the singles title for the third straight time and gain permanent possession of the McLean trophy by virtue of his victory last Sunday over Mangan. Abbie Card won the women's singles title by beating Alice Davis, while Mrs. Charles P. Stone and Frances Walker annexed the doubles crown.

GOLFERS VIE TODAY AT ST. PAUL

Hagen, Diegel, Dudley Are Among Those Entered.

ST. PAUL, June 1 (A.P.).—Except for the absences of a few stars, including Gene Sarazen, a preview of the big national open show of 1933 starts over the tricky Keller Fee course tomorrow as 108 golfers launch their drives for the $5,000 St. Paul open championship.

Five members of the American Ryder Cup team, headed by Capt. Walter Hagen, were bracketed in the field for the 72-hole drive for gold. With him were Ed Dudley, Leo Diegel, Paul Runyan and big Olin Dutra, the national professional champion, who rated an even favorite with "The Haig." It was at Keller last year that Dutra romped through the field with a great subpar performance to win his national crown.

A. G. O. NINE WINS.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: WASHINGTON PARK, JUNE 1.

Something will have to be done about this boy, Jack Westrope. After riding five winners yesterday he came back with three out of four tries today. Yes, and that fourth one was an 8-1 shot on which he was beaten only two lengths. Technique, one of the candidates for the $25,000 American Derby Saturday, was on his list, but Westrope or no Westrope, I can't see this one getting anything in the big race. Not with Head Play, Mr. Khayyam and the other stars on the scene. Sister Mary was the best thing I had today. She was a $13 mutuel. BILL.

FIRST RACE—MARIANA has worked well and appears as good as anything attempting this juvenile sprint. AMSCRAY has some fair races and may make the top one hustle. BAY SERVANT for the rest.

SECOND RACE—SPUD will draw a lot of 'play in this field and should run right up to expectations. PANTALOONS, a fair sort, gets 20 pounds from the top fellow and, at the shift in weights, may make things interesting. MOCKER seems to have an edge on the others.

THIRD RACE—MARTIE FLYNN is one of a number of fairly consistent platers that will march postward for this 7-furlong affair. Martie is at tops now and will be mighty hard to top. Totes only a comfortable 112 pounds. ONDOTT and RUSTY for the other money places.

FOURTH RACE—MISS MELODY is a rather cheap claimer, but has been showing fine form this season. Gets in with only 95 pounds. MINTON shapes up as the one to beat. COL. HATFIELD for the rest.

FIFTH RACE — EVERGOLD has been working smoothly with a race of this kind in view. Likes this route and appears as good a wager as the others. ROCKY NEWS and the lightly weighted BRIGHT BUBBLE for the place and show.

SIXTH RACE—YUCATAN showed a promising effort the last out and may improve enough to take care of these. ANITA ORMONT, with only 102 pounds, will be in the thick of the battle. BOMAC to show.

SEVENTH RACE—FINNIC is among the lightweights here and seems best suited. BEAVER was a fair one in Kentucky. Second is about the right spot. ENGLEWOOD would move up on an off track.

New A. A. U. Marks Are Expected

District Meet Sunday to Draw 6 Defending Champions.

A WHOLESALE assault on the records, with considerable damage expected, will be made Sunday at Catholic University Stadium, where the second annual District A. A. U. track and field championship games will be held. Six of the existing marks are almost certain to go and of the remaining seven events it can not be said that last year's records are beyond reach.

The 1932 marks were made under poor weather conditions. The games were held at night in a drizzling rain that slowed up the track and made the turf soggy for men competing in field events.

Widmayer in Action.

Six champions will defend their laurels won last year, three from Catholic University and three from Maryland. Earl Widmeyer, of Maryland, will run in the 100 and 200 meters races and is expected to lower the existing records for both.

Bob Quinn, another Terrapin flier, copped the 100-meter dash last year, but will not defend his laurels because of a leg injury. Still a third Marylander, Bob Evans, will attempt to better the existing record for the 400-meter dash. When at the top of his stride Evans can go the distance in less than 49 2-5, the present record.

Grover Everett, Bob Slye and Ray Connoly promise to do a bit of record breaking in the high and low hurdles. All have been doing better than the existing times in trial runs.

Spectacular pole-vaulting should be in order, with Ed Frederick, formerly of Mississippi, and Dave Caldwell, former Yale vaulter, in competition. The record of 11 feet virtually is certain to fall.

MOUNT RAINIER PLAYS.

EAGLES WANT GAMES.

Top figures are high tide.

The above predictions give the times the water is high and low. Slack water (time of turn of current) occurs somewhat later. In Chesapeake Bay, midchannel, between Chesapeake Beach and Annapolis, flood and ebb currents begin about 3 to 4 hours after low and high water, respectively, by the shore. At other places given in the table slack waters occur from ½ to 1½ hours after the times of low and high water.

CAPITAL CITY UNLIMITEDS PLAY FIVE GAMES SUNDAY

Millers Seek To Regain Ground

Consumers to Stake Against Youthful Dor-A Nine.

AFTER losing to the Certified Barbers, 2-1, in a grueling battle last Sunday, the Millers have an opportunity of regaining some of the lost ground against the Federal A. C., whom they meet Sunday in the unlimited division of the Capital City League. Five games are listed.

Griffith-Consumers stake their undefeated record and leadership of the big circuit against the youthful Dor-A tossers at Magruder Park in one of the outstanding games. The standing of the clubs is virtually certain to be startlingly revised when it appears Monday morning.

Congress Heights Plays Host.

Old rivals come to grips at Congress Heights, where St. Joseph's will invade for a tussle with the natives. A friendly but keen rivalry exists between the two clubs and games between them attract large crowds and produce fast baseball.

Tony Burruto's Certified Barbers and Al Clark's Stantons tangle at 3 o'clock on the East Ellipse in the outstanding game on the program. Odds-on favorites to win the championship, the Barbers broke into the win column against the Millers last week after bowing to the Griffs in their league debut.

Stanton Stock Soars.

Stanton stock soared last Sunday when it swamped St. Joseph's by a score of 11-0, and many of those who picked the Barbers to win reversed their decisions. Sunday's game should be well worth witnessing, with the winner gaining the inside track on the first-half series title.

Seven games scattered throughout the senior, junior and midget divisions are scheduled also. Auth's battles Mount Rainier in the senior fray at Rosedale Goodacre's tilt with Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association is the standout attraction in the junior division. Georgia Avenue won the banner last year, competing under the colors of the Georgetown A. C. Versis' game with Potomac Fish Co. looms as the feature of the midget section.

Favorites Victors In G. P. Golf Play

Favorites coasted through their first-round matches in the fourth Georgetown Prep invitation golf tournament with comparative ease yesterday at Garrett Park, with the defending champion, Maurice Nee, and four of his teammates triumphing along with two from St. John's and one from St. Alban's.

Yesterday's results.

Allan (G. P.) beat Preston (Gonzaga), 8 and 7; Ortman (St. J.) beat Merkle (Gonzaga), 7 and 6; Janney (G. P.) beat Lock (St. J.), 3 and 2; Detwiler (G. P.) beat Berberich (St. J.) by default; Ferguson (G. P.) beat Jarvis (Gonzaga), 7 and 5; Cornwell (St. Alban's) beat Sullivan (St. J.), 3 and 4; Stanley (St. J.) beat Sewell (G. P.), 5 and 4; Nee (G. P.) beat O'Leary (St. J.), 3 and 4.

Davis Sees Victory For U. S. Net Team

St. Louis, June 1 (A.P.).—Dwight F. Davis, former Secretary of War, who donated the Davis Cup 33 years ago, believes the United States tennis team has an excellent chance to win the international trophy this year. His opinion is contrary to that of big Bill Tilden, who does not think Ellsworth Vines and his mates have much chance.

Davis recently returned from the East where, as a member of the selection committee, he looked over the players who will go to Europe soon.

WAR NETMEN WIN.

War Department beat the Veterans Administration in the Inter-Departmental Tennis League yesterday, 4 to 1, on the Monument Courts.

Results:

Dorst and Newsarden beat Erana and Johnson, 6—4, 6—3; Weiss and Selva (Veterans) beat Crane and Martin, 3—6, 6—3, 6—4; Smith and Godfrey beat Dibb and Daley, 6—4, 6—1; Darby and Thomas beat Hall and Kelsey, 6—2, 6—1; Kellert and Scott beat Pratt and McDonald, 6—3, 6—1.

Baer and Schmeling Warm Up for Battle of the Maxes Next Thursday

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE difference between the Nats in third place and the Yankees in first place can be described in three-letter words—the Red Sox.

The Nats' pathetic inability to beat with any regularity the club that the rest of the league is using as a door mat, coupled with the Yankees' six straight victories over the same Red Sox, explains a great deal in connection with the present American League standings.

Five times the Nats have met the Red Sox and three times the league door mat has risen to smack the Washington club down, most recent evidence of which was yesterday's game, in which the Nats were nestling snugly in a 5-1 lead until their pitching bogged down and presented the game to Boston.

Macks Also Ahead Of Sox.

The Athletics, who moved into second place without striking a blow yesterday as the result of the Boston victory over the Nats, also have used the Red Sox for a good thing this season as additional evidence of the costliness of the Nats' failures to reap any advantage against Boston this season.

In seven games with Boston, the Athletics have won five. In six games with Boston, the Yankees have won six. Yet the Boston Club is the only team in the league to show an advantage over the Nats in the campaign thus far. And they say that the only thing that is keeping the Red Sox in the league at all is a concrete cellar. But the Nats are helping.

On the basis of their play this season, the Nats are subjects for a psychiatrist. In contrast to their miserable showing against the weak Boston Club, they have won 5 out of 8 from the Yankees, and 5 out of 8 from the Athletics. They have won 3 out of 5 from Cleveland, 3 out of 6 from Chicago, 3 out of 6 from Detroit and 4 out of 6 from the Browns.

RUNS, HITS AND ERRORS.

Dale Alexander is out of the Red Sox line-up as a result of a batting slump . . . and when Alexander isn't hitting he's about as much use to a club as an armless pitcher . . . Bill Werber, the local boy who is making good with Boston at shortstop, gave his friends who knew him when plenty to enthuse about with his five assists and one putout . . . as a first baseman pro tem, Outfielder Bob Seeds is proving no drawback to the Red Sox . . . he committed two high-handed robberies on liners by Kuhel and McAfee . . . Joe Cronin had a band in three of the Nats' first four runs and had three hits for the day . . . he's beginning to strike a clean-up hitter's stride with a .373 average since the club returned from the West . . . Dusty Cooke, the ex-Yank, was in left field for the Sox yesterday . . . he's shy of right-field in Griffith Stadium . . . it was there two years ago that he broke his collar bone in aliding for Ossie Bluege's pop fly that went as one of the shortest home runs on record that May day in 1931 . . . his injury kept him out of the big leagues for two years.

Schmeling Shows Knockout Punch in Rugged Workout

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

LAKE SWANNANOA, N. J., June 1 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling has his ear to the ground. He hears rumbles from the training camp of Max Baer, warnings of a rollicking young 210-pound slugger Jack Dempsey has coached in the method of beating him. So he is guiding himself accordingly.

Today, just one week from the night he meets Baer in the Yankee Stadium, the smooth-muscled young Teuton started molding his workouts along the line best suited to meet the plunging, headlong attack Dempsey says is the only fighting style that can whip him.

And to add emphasis to the occasion he hit Barney Baker, one of his sparring partners, with a straight right to the jaw that not only floored Barney but set the teeth of the more susceptible of the hundreds about the training ring to aching.

Schmeling boxed six rounds with Baker, Tommy De Stefano and Lou Barba, and against each he laid in wait for the rushing attack he expects from Baer. He abandoned his own weaving, aggressive style and was content to block punches, feint and see just what could be done to a fellow who comes charging at you swinging a left hook.

He studied his lessons carefully with Stefano and he found the answer against Baker. Barney started a left hook for the head. Schmeling pulled his chin a fraction of an inch out of the way and shot his right, clothed in a 16-ounce glove, straight to Baker's jaw. The sparring partner fell flat on his face, pulled himself to his hands and knees and gazed in muddled surprise at the spectators about the ringside.

He was lifted gently to his feet as Schmeling shadow-boxed about him, grinning happily, and with the German's kind cooperation was able to stumble through the round.

Tommy Armour Shoots 69 in North Shore Trial

Chicago, June 1 (U.P.).—Tommy Armour, former British open and national open champion, shot a 69, three under par, in a practice round today over the North Shore Country Club course. It is the best round registered since the North Shore course was lengthened and retrapped. The course record is 68, made by Abe Espinosa before the course was altered.

Out .....453 445 433—35
In .....445 535 244—34—69

D. C. Pros See Preview Of Jones' Golf Movies

A number of golf pros last night attended a preview screening of the first three chapters of Bobby Jones' new series of golf films, "How to Break Ninety," which opens at the Earle Theater today.

Indian Spring Cancels Invitation Golf Event

The golf committee of Indian Spring last night announced that the invitation event scheduled for June 27-28-29-30 has been canceled because of "general conditions."

"We regret having to take such action," Tom Belshe, committee chairman stated, "but our committee deems it advisable."

A few weeks ago Columbia County Club's tournament slated for June 6-7-8-9 was called off. There have been rumors that Congressional might take the same step, although Congressional officials are making plans for the invitation scheduled June 20-21-22-23.

Indian Spring will be the scene of the Maryland State amateur, beginning July 19. The District championship also is scheduled there September 7-8.

Good Bouts Added To Portner's Card

A strong supporting card has been added to the eight-round headline match between Johnny Farr, veteran Cleveland featherweight, and Pete Sarron, of Birmingham, Tuesday night at Portner's Arena, Alexandria.

Bob Lowry, District lightweight, has been matched against Al Parks, of Baltimore, in a six-rounder. Frankie DeAngelo, a well-known District bantamweight, will give away a few pounds in a six-round bout with Chief Perry Knowles, Seminole Indian. Chuck Henderson, local lightweight, will oppose "Wild Bill" Howell, newcomer from the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, in a four-rounder. Another four-round match will be added.

The Farr-Sarron fight will close the boxing season at Portner's.

Vines Victor, Extended By Bryan

Sutter, Lott and Wood Others to Advance at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 1 (A.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, Cliff Sutter, George Lott and Sidney Wood won their way to the semifinals of the Dixie invitation tennis tournament today.

Sutter, the New Orleans star, performed like a champion in turning back Berkeley Bell, of New York, 6—2, 6—2, 6—4. Bell was clearly outclassed by the South's highest ranking player.

Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, fought gamely against Lott in a contest he had conceded before it began. The Chicago ace, who will play Sutter tomorrow, beat the Georgian, 6—4, 7—5, 6—2. Grant showed the effects of recent illness.

Vines, the national singles champion and tournament favorite, reached the semifinals by trouncing Robert (Lefty) Bryan, of Chattanooga, late today 6—3, 7—5, 0—6, 6—0. Bryan fought the champion all the way, forcing the Californian to extend himself.

Zappa Defaults To Wood.

Sidney Wood, the New Yorker who meets Vines tomorrow, came to the semifinals by the default of Adriano Zappa, captain of the Argentine team.

Wood took the first set 6—4, and the second went to Zappa 10—8. Zappa was leading Wood 5—3 in the third and deciding set (the match had been reduced to the best two out of three by special arrangement) when he sought to default. Wood declined to accept and after some argument the set was resumed.

Wood forged ahead of Zappa and then he in turn sought to default. The Argentine declined to accept. Tournament officials ruled that Zappa defaulted the match. The Argentine left this afternoon for Miami, planning to go from there to Argentina.

CARDINALS TO BE BUSY.

Indianhead Cardinals will be busy over the week-end. Tomorrow they play at Round Hill, Va., and Sunday they go to Orange, Va., for a double-header. All players are to meet at Eighth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock.

Schmeling-Baer Bout Not to Be Broadcast

New York, June 1 (U.P.).—Jack Dempsey announced tonight that the Max Schmeling-Maxie Baer 15-rounder at Yankee Stadium next Thursday will not be broadcast. This decision was reached following a conference with managers of the two fighters.

The referee and judges will be selected by the State athletic commission on the night of the fight.

The main bout is slated to go on about 10 p. m.

District Golf Women Are Beaten

BY a margin of 1 point, a 20-woman team representing Baltimore golf clubs defeated the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association First Team yesterday at the Manor Club. The final score was 15½ to 14½.

Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of Columbia, and Mrs. Jerome Meyer, of Woodmont, scored 1½ points in their match with the visiting stars, Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, of Elkridge, and Mrs. W. B. Hurst.

Mrs. Katherine May, of Kenwood, and Mrs. J. E. Davis, of Army and Navy, who substituted for Mrs. Betty Palmer Meckley, and Mrs. Don Scott, of Indian Spring, scored 3 points for the District Team in their match against Mrs. P. N. Ramseur and Mrs. C. M. Stowe.

Mrs. J. M. Haynes and Mrs. Jerome Meyer, Washington, won 2½ points and lost 1½ points to Mrs. E. B. Morrow and Mrs. W. B. Hurst, jr., Baltimore; Mrs. Hume Wrona and Mrs. M. R. Quinter, Washington, 2½ points; Mrs. M. L. Bell and Mrs. W. F. Peterson, Baltimore, 1½ points; Miss Susan Hacker and Mrs. J. W. Cochet Easy Winner in Net Play

Beats Japanese Star to Gain His Way to Quarter-Finals.

AUTEUIL, France, June 1 (A.P.).—With Henri Cochet, French Davis Cup ace, leading the way in the defense of his singles title, the field in the French hard court tennis championships today was narrowed to eight players in each of the men and women's divisions of play.

Cochet won his way into the quarter finals with an easy straight set victory over Eikichi Itoh, Japanese Davis Cup player. The score was 6—1, 6—2, 6—4. He will play Roderich Menzel, of Czechoslovakia, in the quarter finals.

The French star was joined in the final eight by Jack Crawford, Australian champion; Fred Perry and H. G. N. Lee, of England, Jiro Satoh, of Japan, and his fellow countryman, Marcel Bernard, all of whom won today. Christian Boussus, of France, and Menzel won their places in the quarter final bracket yesterday.

The quarter-finals in the women's play was completed with victories by Betty Nuthall, fifth ranking English player; Mlle. J. Goldschmidt, of France, and Margaret Scriven, of England. The two American players, Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, seeking the title vacated by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, together with Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France, and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, of England, previously had won their way into the final eight.

Miss Nuthall, one of the favorites, easily eliminated the Swiss champion, Mlle. Udiette Payot, 6—2, 6—2. Her quarter-final opponent will be Mrs. Burke.

Play will continue tomorrow with two matches in each of the divisions. In the men's singles, Crawford plays Boussus and Cochet matches strokes with Menzel. Mme. Mathieu will oppose Mrs. Whittingstall in the upper half of the draw in the women's play, while Mary Heely will meet Miss Scriven in an all-English affair in the lower half.

The pairings for the remainder of the quarter-finals, scheduled for Saturday, will bring together Perry and Satoh and Bernard and Lee in the men's division. Miss Jacobs will oppose Mlle. Goldschmidt and Mrs. Burke will meet Miss Nuthall.

NEW ZEALAND, home of many of nature's strange creatures, is also the home of the kiwi, the strange bird that, though it is smaller than the ordinary domestic hen, lays an egg nearly as large as that of the ostrich. The kiwi, in proportion to its size, lays the world's largest egg. The egg sometimes measures 5 inches from end to end, whereas the ostrich egg is 6 inches.

So closely is the name Frankenstein associated with the monster in Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley's novel that the word has come to be synonymous with an unnatural, soulless monster. Frankenstein, of course, was not the monster, but the ambitious young scientist who created him.

Although it must have air to breathe, and will drown in water as any mammal, the whale can stay under water when necessary for an hour —some scientists say more. When wounded the whale seeks escape in deep water. He can take enough air into his lungs at once to last him a full hour at least.

The troy ounce, which is the unit for apothecaries' weights, is one-twelfth part of the troy pound. The avoirdupois pound has sixteen avoirdupois ounces. This latter system would be used in weighing lead, while the former would be used for quinine. The troy ounce is about one-tenth heavier than the avoirdupois ounce.

ELWOOD SEAL PICKED AS SPECIAL COUNSEL FOR MILK PRICE QUIZ

Designated by Bride Upon Request of Special Senate Probers.

The basis for the inquiry into milk prices is being laid by Assistant Corporation Counsel Elwood H. Seal, who was designated yesterday as special assistant to the Senate subcommittee which is to make the investigation.

At the request of Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee, the assignment was made by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride.

Upon being named, Mr. Seal immediately began his task of surveying the mass of data which has been collected and which will constitute the starting point of the inquiry, which is the climax of a series of articles in The Post.

For several days Mr. Seal will devote his time to a preliminary examination of the factual data which has been amassed by the investigating subcommittee. He will then prepare his list of witnesses. Then he will be ready to go forward with the inquiry.

Offices in the Senate Building have been assigned to Mr. Seal, and there he will make his headquarters during the investigation. He will act as special counsel to the subcommittee, which is composed of Senator Warren Austin (Republican), of Vermont, chairman, and Senators King and Royal S. Copeland (Democrats) of New York.

House Gets Bill to Raise Local P. U. C. Powers

Following close on the heels of the Norton bill to speed up court action on public utility cases, Representative Carl M. Weideman (Democrat), Michigan, yesterday introduced another House measure to broaden the Public Utilities Commission's authority.

The bill provides that all of the commission's findings as to fact shall be final, although appeals could be taken to the courts on questions of law. Companies would have 30 days to file appeal from a commission ruling, and the latter would have to make response within ten days. Public Utility Commission cases would be given preference in the courts over other matters.

Woman Suffers Injury When Hit by Street Car

Mrs. Jennie Craymer, 52, No. 144 K street southeast, suffered a fracture of her left arm, concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries yesterday when struck by a street car at Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast. She was treated at Providence Hospital.

William Rhodes, of Cherrydale, Va., motorman on the car said he was stopping at the crossing when the woman stepped onto the track.

Children Present Dancing Program

An interesting dance recital, the "Crepe Paper Review," by the children of Hoffman and Hoskins Studio, was presented last night at Wardman Park Theater. Novel choreography, beautiful costumes and scenery of crepe paper and many excellent performances by individual dancers combined to form a delightful presentation.

Among the many pleasing scenes, one entitled "The Wedding of Minnie and Mickey Mouse," was amusing. It was presented by the "baby class," and Peggy Beveridge, Charline Brill, Jane Bradbury and Peggy Sakeld.

Tiny Lillian Hoffman's toe-tripping as "The Living Bubble," was applauded by the capacity audience. She appeared in several presentations. Other particularly pleasing scenes were "A Day at the Circus" and "A Gypsy Camp at Twilight."

Man in Rail Death Believed Identified

One of the two men who were killed by a train on the Southern Railway near Ravensworth in Fairfax County, Va., early this week has been tentatively identified, according to Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby. He is Robert Williams, of Grand Prairie, Tex.

He was about 35 years old. A check is being made of War Department records to see if he had a service record. Meanwhile Sheriff Kirby has wired authorities in Grand Prairie seeking the man's relatives.

No identification has been made of the other body, a youth about 18 years old, as the body is badly mangled. The bodies are being held at the undertaking establishment of Hall & Davis at Occoquan, Va.

Girl Scouts Unit Bids Public to "Gala Day"

The public is invited to attend the "Gala Day" celebration by the Washington Girl Scouts Council, to be held at the National Woman's Country Club tomorrow from 10 a. m. until midnight.

A program of archery, golf, bridge and other features has been arranged. Busses will leave 1825 M street northwest at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

Realty Firm Liable On Apartment Rent

Justice Jennings Bailey yesterday, in the District Supreme Court, ordered Harry Wardman, Thomas P. Bones, and Thomas D. Hobbs and the Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., held accountable for rents and profits collected from the Highlands Apartments since August, 1928. The decree was sought by Miss Margaret Jean Calvin.

Miss Calvin, according to court records, purchased the building from George B. Bryan, who had, in turn bought it from Wardman, Bones and Hobbs. Miss Calvin declared in her suit that when Bryan purchased the building, he had an agreement with the defendants that made them liable to her as a successor purchaser.

Justice Bailey directed that the suit be referred to the auditor of the District Supreme Court for an accounting.

LAW COLLEGE GIVES HONORARY DEGREE TO MRS. ROOSEVELT

First Lady Speaks Before Washington Graduates at Commencement.

Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Washington College of Law at the thirty-fifth commencement of the college last night at Memorial Continental Hall.

The degree was conferred by Dean Grace Hays Riley, of the institution in recognition of the First Lady's "rich contribution in the field of social service."

Prior to receiving the degree Mrs. Roosevelt delivered a brief but informative address on the individual's responsibility to his Government.

"No one in the white House could do a great deal alone," she averred. "It matters much more what all the people are doing. They are the important factors in what can be done today."

People Aid Government.

The First Lady expressed the belief that "the people are suddenly waking up and seeking a code of individual cooperation with the Government.

"I think there are already signs of a general change," she added, "and a promise of an entirely new civilization in the years to come. No longer do we find a ready acceptance of ideas and labels handed down. The people are evidencing a real open mind and a real inquiring about things in general."

Mrs. Roosevelt gave a special message to the 96 members of the graduating class, advising them that it is more important than anything else that they as the new youth, take up the new code and forge the way for a change.

Mrs. Roosevelt headed the procession into the hall. She was accompanied by Dr. Ellen Spencer Mussey, co-founder of the college and honorary dean. The exercises were opened with an invocation by Dr. Andrew R. Bird, pastor of the Church of the Pilgrims. The following special awards were presented by Associate Justice F. Dickinson Letts, of the District Supreme Court.

LAND COST DISPUTE DELAYS BUILDING OF JEFFERSON SCHOOL

$75,000 Appropriation Will Lapse July 1 Unless Owners Accept.

Unless owners of the disputed land chosen as a site for the Jefferson Junior High School agree to accept what the District Commissioners consider a fair offer this month, the school construction will be indefinitely delayed and an appropriation of $75,000 for purchase of additional land will lapse July 1, District officials revealed yesterday.

The controversy, now in litigation, between District officials and owners of the property has already led to the loss of $105,000, which was in the 1932 appropriations act. The $75,000 is an annual appropriation in the 1933 act.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, believes that the school could be built if the District obtains the remainder of the block bounded by Seventh, Eighth, H and I streets southwest, a large part of which it now owns. While the school would be without adequate playground space, the block would be large enough for the school and two gymnasiums.

The District government has an appropriation of $250,000 to start work on the school and is authorized to enter a contract for $585,000. The fight over the site is all that is blocking the school's construction.

A price of $110,000 was fixed by the first condemnation jury on the remainder of the property originally included in the site. The owners appealed, and the verdict was thrown out on a technicality because the District tax assessor was a witness in the case. The District offered a compromise price somewhat higher, but the owners called for another condemnation trial and this time were awarded $208,000. The District appealed from this decision and the case is now pending in the Court of Appeals.

The Commissioners and members of Congress, however, have made it clear that the District will not buy the land at the last named figure no matter how the court rules.

Soldiers Home Resident Hurt in Fall From Cab

Falling from a taxicab when the door flew open in turning from Georgia avenue into Rock Creek Church road, Thomas Smith, 72, of Soldiers' Home, yesterday suffered bruises and severe lacerations to his scalp.

He was treated at the Soldiers' Home Hospital.

Three Are Indicted In Teacher Holdup

Three men were indicted by the District grand jury yesterday on a charge of holding up Margaret B. Hardy, teacher, of Eastern High School. They are accused of snatching a bag containing $710 from her.

The three were Thomas A. Conley, William Russell Day and Claude A. Soper. They are accused of intimidating Miss Hardy in front of the Washington Mechanics Bank at Ninth and East Capitol streets, where they seized a bag containing the money.

Miss Hardy is instructor of banking at the Eastern High School. She was taking the money to the bank for deposit.

SENATE GROUP GETS D. C. INSURANCE BILL

Commissioners Seeking to Empower Superintendent to Approve Rates.

The District Commissioners yesterday sent to the Senate District Committee a bill to amend the municipal code so as to empower the District superintendent of insurance to approve the rates of insurance companies which insure employers against liability for compensation under the employes compensation act.

At the present time these insurance concerns are licensed to transact business in the District by the superintendent of licenses, but these licenses do not fix the rates. The companies themselves establish the rates, and there is no law which requires that these rates be reasonable.

"The Commissioners are informed that it is the intention of these corporations and associations to make a radical increase in their rates and these rates must be paid without reference to their reasonableness," the letter to Senator King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, stated.

"The Commissioners believe that the subject of rates should be supervised as a matter of fairness to employers and employees. The proposed legislation will give the superintendent of insurance authority to pass upon the reasonableness of rates, subject to a review by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

The text of the bill reads:

"Every insurance corporation or association authorized to transact business in the District of Columbia, which insures employers against liability for compensation under the employes compensation act, shall file with the superintendent of insurance its manual of classification and underwriting rules, together with basic rates for each class, none of which shall take effect until the superintendent of insurance shall have approved the same as adequate and reasonable for the group of risks to which they respectively apply.

"The superintendent of insurance may withdraw his approval of any premium rate or schedule made by any insurance corporation or association, if, in his judgment, such premium rate or schedule is inadequate or unreasonable, provided that upon petition of the company or association or any other party aggrieved the opinion of the superintendent of insurance shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

Gen. Patrick Reelected Chairman of P. U. C.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick was reelected chairman of the Public Utilities Commission yesterday upon motion of Maj. John C. Gotwals, engineer commissioner and member of the commission.

D. C. APPOINTMENTS WAIT ADJOURNMENT AT CAPITOL, IS VIEW

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Congress is going back home having shaken few plums from the political patronage tree, if the administration is able to carry through its plans.

It is planned to fill only a few more jobs before Congress is hustled out of session by June 10, and, after Congress has been dispersed, to fill thousands of posts with recess appointees.

The only additional nominations expected to be sent to the Senate before adjournment of the session are those to posts now vacant which may not be filled without prior confirmation by the Senate.

The District Commissioners, United States district attorney, District court judges and other District posts are not going to be filled until after Congress gets away. Only an upset in present calculations can upset that plan.

Juvenile Court Judge.

The fight over District Commissioners places still is at sixes and sevens, it was said authoritatively, despite the confidence of some of the open and under-cover candidates for the places. The same thing was said to be true of the district attorney, while the job of public printer also is still a much-fought-over bone.

Incumbents are expected to be held in their present posts for the time being. Among the places for which a warm campaign is being waged is that of Juvenile Court judge. Miss Fay Bentley, of the public school system, has been advanced by her friends, but she is thought to have been definitely eliminated from consideration. Democrats protesting that Miss Bentley is Republican and there are several good Democrats available for the post, which has been filled by Judge Kathryn Sellers, whose term expired months ago. Miss Pearl McCall, assistant district attorney, was nominated by President Hoover to succeed Judge Sellers, but the Senate refused to approve the nomination last session. Miss McCall also is thought definitely out of the picture.

Senator Samuel G. Bratton, of New Mexico, was nominated yesterday by President Roosevelt as judge of the Tenth Federal District, and confirmed by the Senate within an hour. Senator Bratton accepted the job when it was offered several weeks ago, but agreed to remain in the Senate until the President's legislative program was finished.

Cross Slated for Job.

Dr. James M. Doran has a fairly good chance of remaining as commissioner of industrial alcohol under the new administration. Plans to merge the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol and the Prohibition Bureau into a single agency probably will reduce the importance of the position.

Guernsey Cross, secretary to President Roosevelt when he was Governor of New York, is slated for a post with the new administration, but where he will be placed hasn't been determined. He is being considered for a job in the Department of Justice. Carter Harrison, five times mayor of Chicago, also may be appointed to some post, it was learned. The collector of internal revenue for Georgia will probably be W. E. Page, newspaper publisher of Columbus. Mr. Page managed President Roosevelt's preconvention campaign in Georgia.

Some few other posts are to be filled before adjournment, but the great bulk of the places on which job-hungry Democrats have fixed their longing looks are not to be filled until after Congress adjourns.

De Luxe 350-Pound Bicycle Is on Tour

The heaviest bicycle on the road and the most completely equipped came to Washington yesterday.

The machine is being driven throughout the United States by George Berso, 30. Weighing 350 pounds, the bicycle is equipped with every conceivable need, including an umbrella and fire extinguisher.

Mr. Berso declares that he can cover 100 miles a day, at an average of from 15 to 20 miles an hour. He intends to remain in Washington for several days.

Transit Company Loses $1,000 Damage Suit

Miss Esther B. Watkins, 1833 New Hampshire avenue northwest, yesterday was awarded a verdict for $1,000 against the Washington Rapid Transit Co. for injuries received when, as a passenger in a bus, she was struck by a tree top on Sixteenth street.

Through attorney A. L. Newmyer, Miss Watkins said that she was preparing to alight from the bus at Sixteenth and T streets northwest, when a tree limb struck her.

REPORT HELPS GAS MERGER CHANCES

Prospect of special session action on the Washington-Georgetown Gas Light Co. merger improved considerably yesterday with a favorable report by the House District Committee on a much-amended merger bill. The bill was amended and approved at a closed committee session.

The House Committee action leaves the bill pending now on both House and Senate calendars, the Senate District Committee having approved the measure without amendment early this week.

Amendments made yesterday by the House District Committee provide, first, that the merger conditions shall not be ratified until pending valuation proceedings are completed; second, that no salary over $15,000 can be paid any official of the merged company, and, third, that only 15 per cent of stock issued by the merged companies can be directly or indirectly owned by individuals, corporations or trust companies.

Representative Dirksen (Democrat), Illinois, charged the last amendment was "impossible" and could not operate under present conditions of financing. It was agreed to nevertheless.

Chairman Mary T. Norton declared the legislation was of an emergency nature, inasmuch as it offered promise of jobs to between 200 and 500 persons.

BEER TAX TO YIELD $18,000 FOR MONTH

D. C. Board Considers First Group of Applications for Annual Permits.

Forty beer dealers yesterday reported sales of 415 barrels of the 3.2 per cent brew during May in Washington and paid $415 in taxes to the District tax collector. More than 1,700 licensees must file returns within the next nine days or else forfeit their permits, according to the tax assessor's office.

While the tax assessor's office estimates that the May taxes will reach between $18,000 and $20,000 as compared with close to $15,000 for April, the first day's receipts exceeded returns filed on May 1 for April sales by four, but two less barrels of beer were reported sold.

The Beverage Permits Board yesterday considered the first group of annual licenses and tentatively approved a half dozen. Because of the desire of the board to make personal inspections of several of the places operated by the licensees, however, others were held up. All annual licenses must be approved by the District Commissioners before they are issued.

Only two more meetings will be held by the Permit Board to consider further applications for temporary licenses, the Commissioners having ordered that no more temporary permits be approved after June 10.

Extortion Charged To Arrested Youth

A 20-year-old Texas youth last night was being held on charges of extortion lodged by a well-to-do local business man, climaxing an investigation of several days by Washington detectives and postal inspectors.

The youth is George Miller, of Lubbock, Tex. The complainant is Robert E. Mathers, sr., president of a Washington paper company. Letters allagedly sent to Mathers by Miller demanded sums of money under $100, with the threat of certain disclosures if the sum was not paid.

Miller was arrested early yesterday at the general delivery window of the City Postoffice, where Detectives A. D. Mansfield and J. J. Tolson and postal operatives had maintained a long vigil. Bail of $1,000 was set.

Bonus Pals Plan Steinkraus Rites

The body of Edde Steinkraus, poet-photographer of the B. E. F. of 1932, and known as Eddie Goanell to his World War veteran buddies, last night was at the undertaking establishment of W. W. Chambers, while "right wing" bonus pals planned an impressive funeral.

Relatives notified by police of Steinkraus' suicide Monday, had not claimed the body late last night.

The body was released yesterday to representatives of the "right wing," who are located at 1348 Fairmont street northwest. Unless relatives indicate a claim by Saturday, burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery Monday.
